IMPERIALS START FIRES IN HANKOW.

Nearly the Whole of the Native City Burning.

The Wesleyan Mission, Near the Han River, Probably Destroyed.

HANKOW, Nov. 4, via Wu Hu—Almost the whole of the native city of Hankow is on fire this morning and it is feared the Wesleyan mission, near the Han river, in which were 50 blind boys and 150 wounded persons, who, with the staff of the mission made up a total of 300 persons, has been destroyed.

Dr. Booth, head of the mission, asked the imperialists to grant an armistice of two hours to permit of removal from the mission, but the firing ceased for only a half hour. A Red Cross steamer, which attempted to rescue the inmates of the mission, was driven back by the fire from the rebel fort. One shell riddled the steamer's deckhouse. When the vessel was compelled to turn back the mission was still standing but its position was hopeless, the flames being within 200 yards of the buildings.

The fires in the town were started by the imperialists, who threw inflammable shells into the place. A strong wind carried the flames across the river to Han Yang and a strip of that city on the water front, a mile long, was destroyed and the fire is still burning there. A few hundred rebels, against whom the imperialists are preparing to advance, occupied the unburned parts of Hankow.

When the steamer left an artillery duel was taking place between the batteries of the imperialists which were planted back of the British concessions and the Wu Chang and Hun Yang forts. Several rebel shells, landed in the foreign concessions, piercing the walls of houses.

The imperials occupied the district westward of the railway station, almost to the Han river. The Chamber of Commerce asked the foreign consuls to protest against the burning of the city, but the consuls declined to do so.

There is some doubt of the date of the Hankow despatch. It was relayed at Wu Hu today, but it is not plain whether it left Hankow this morning or yesterday.

REBEL CAUSE STRONGER.

Revolutionists Control Situation in Shanghai and on Yang tse Delta.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 4.—The new revolutionary government which is apparently impersonal, nevertheless effectively controlled the situation in Shanghai and on the Yang tse delta today.

Since morning the rebel cause has been strengthened by the arming of all those who applied for rifles and ammunition. The rebels obtained not only the arsenal but the powder factory, gunboats, and an enormous supply of new and first-class Mauser rifles. Fully 10,000 rifles were given indiscriminately to applicants this evening.

The forts at Wu Sung and the other up-river forts hoisted the white flag, as though through a previous understanding with the rebel commander. The revolutionists can hardly be said to have "seized" Shanghai, Wu Sung and the other up-river forts. It was simply a change of control, in which practically every one acquiesced. About ten persons were killed and 20 others injured, but most of the casualties were accidental, due to the explosion of dynamite which was used to open the gates of the city which had been perfunctorily closed.

The arsenal at Shanghai has a capacity for a great output and is now completely manned and is being operated. It can manufacture 60,000 cartridges daily. The powder factory, which is the largest in China, is well stocked. Admiral Sah's squadron has depended entirely upon the arsenal and powder factory as the base of its supplies.

Up to 6 o'clock tonight there had not been a single case of disturbance within the foreign settlement. Many foreigners visited the arsenal, which is five miles from the settlement, and everywhere they were treated with the utmost courtesy by the officers and rebels.

The foreign troops continue to guard the railway station of the Nanking-Shanghai railway, upon the order of the British consul. This action continues to cause not only comment as being contrary to the policy of foreign neutrality, but apprehension lest the rebels interpret it as a determination of the foreigners of support the Manchus. The bonds of the railway company are owned in England and this appears to be the only reason for British interference. There is not the slightest reason for anticipating trouble in Shanghai and the neighborhood, so far as foreigners are concerned. However, because of the great quantity of arms served out, it is not unlikely that there may be rioting.

Rear Admiral Murdock, commander of the American Asiatic fleet, landed 200 marines today and marched them through the main streets of the settlement. The men made a fine appearance.

The main street of the settlement, Nanking road, is now a mass of revolutionary flags. Nearly every store displays the rebel colors. All the Mandarins have found refuge in the foreign concessions.

American cruiser Albany has gone to Wu Sung.

Communication with near-by points remains uninterrupted. Up to the present the revolutionists have shown no disposition to interfere with the telegraph or cable lines.

Cruiser Albany's mission to Wu Sung is to protect the cable station there.

A small band of loyalists who remained at the arsenal were driven out this morning and most of the casualties in connection with the change of authority occured at that time, through the use of dynamite by the rebels.

SCORES WITH THE ODDS AGAINST HER

Princeton Blocks a Kick and Makes Touchdown.

Safety in Third Period Makes It Stand 8 to 0.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 4.—Princeton scored a touchdown and goal against Harvard today, in the second period, when it looked a moment before as if her own goal line was in danger of being crossed. The period was full of sensations.

Princeton had a fine chance for a goal from the field on Harvard's 25-yard line, but the ball was blocked and only Pendleton's fast running prevented a Crimson touchdown.

Then Harvard assaulted the Tigers' goal and had the ball on Princeton's 5-yard line on an onside kick. Princeton held fairly and the attempted field goal was blocked. White picked the ball up on Princeton's 15-yard line and out-distanced the entire Crimson team in his 85-yard dash for the first score of the game. Pendleton kicked an easy goal and the half of the game ended 6 to 0 in favor of Princeton.

In the first period Princeton not only held Harvard but kept the ball entirely in Harvard's territory the greater part of the time. The big Harvard backs were able to make only short gains against the agile Princeton forwards and there was no scoring.

The feature of the game was the charging of the Princeton forwards and their ability to stop the powerful Wendell.

In the third period Harvard was forced to resort to a safety to save a goal, making the score at that point 8 to 0 in Princeton's favor.

The stands were not half full when the Harvard team dashed on the field at 1:30. There were a few cheers as the men spread out over the grounds to warm up. The exercise lasted 15 minutes and then the team went back into the dressing room.

At 1:50 the stands were filling rapidly but there was only a low murmur until the Princeton team came on the field. Then four leaders, armed with megaphones, pulled open the throttle and the well known locomotive cheer boomed across the gridiron, ending with three long Harvards. The Harvard cheerers went into action immediately and returned the compliment.

The Harvard team appeared at two minutes before 2 and once more the stands broke into cheers. Captain Fisher and Captain Hart shook hands in the centre of the field and then the coin was flipped for the choice of sides. Harvard won the toss and took the south goal, with the sun at their backs, giving Princeton the kick-off.

Dewitt kicked off to Campbell on Harvard's 10-yard line, but the ball was run back 10 yards. Potter kicked on the first down to the centre of the field, where the ball was held for no gain. Dewitt went through the centre for 4 yards. On the second play, around the left end, there was no change.

Dewitt kicked to Potter who was thrown without gain on his 10-yard line. Wendell made 2 yards through centre and then Potter kicked to Harvard's 60-yard line and the ball was run back 5 yards. Harvard blocked the next plunge in the centre and Dewitt kicked to the 10-yard line again. Potter kicked on the first down and the ball was blocked, but a Harvard man took it. The Princeton forwards broke through on nearly every play.

Wendell plowed his way through for 9 yards and then made a first down on Harvard's 25-yard line. Harvard kicked to the centre of the field, where there was no run-back on the ball. Princeton tried an end run without gain. Dewitt kicked outside on Harvard's 34-yard line. It was Harvard's ball and Wendell tried the line for no gain. The Princeton tackling was very fierce.

A kick followed to Princeton's 33-yard line and the ball was on the Tigers' side for the first time in their own possession. Time was called while Gardiner was revived, but he finally was obliged to leave the field.

Dewitt kicked outside again on Harvard's 30-yard line. On the first down Harvard made 10 yards. The Princeton forwards judged the play beautifully and seemed to stop the big Harvard backs easily.

Potter kicked on the next down, then Pendleton got the ball but was brought back and Princeton lost 15 yards for holding. It was Harvard's ball on their 44-yard line. Wendell tried Princeton's left end for a scant yard. A kick followed to Princeton's 25-yard line, where Pendleton made a fair catch. Jenks took Gardiner's place.

Dewitt kicked to Campbell, who fumbled and it was Princeton's ball on Harvard's 47-yard line. Vaughan made a yard around right end. An onside kick was blocked, but Princeton recovered the ball on their 50-yard line. Dewitt tried to run on a fake kick, but was thrown back for a loss. He kicked to Harvard's 33-yard line, where Potter made a fair catch.

On a free kick Campbell lost 4 yards. A kick followed to Pendleton on Princeton's 52-yard line. Pendleton tried Harvard's right end for a loss of 2 yards. Dewitt kicked to Potter on Harvard's 34-yard line. On the first rush Potter made a wide sweep around Princeton's right end for 7 yards.

Time was called for breathing spell with the ball in Harvard's possession on her 44-yard line. Then Wendell plunged through to the centre of the field for a first down on the longest run so far. On the next rush the ball was carried into the Tigers' territory only for a yard. Then Harvard kicked outside on Princeton's 22-yard line, where time was called for the first period.

First period—Harvard 0, Princeton 0.

While the teams were changing sides the sun came out, shining in Harvard's face.

In the second period Dewitt kicked on the second down to Harvard's 45-yard line. As the ball went into the air an aeroplane came flying over the field, with two men in it, and there was considerable cheering. Harvard kicked on the second down and then lost 15 yards in Princeton territory for holding. Dewitt kicked on the first down to Potter on Harvard's 25-yard line and the Crimson quarter was thrown without gain. Potter was injured and Gardiner took his place.

Wendell made 3 yards and then

VANIMAN MAKES A TRIAL FLIGHT.

Airship Akron Ascends and Descends Several Times.

Last Stop Near Pleasantville Thought to be Due to the Gas Bag.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 4.—Airship Akron, under command of Melvin Vaniman, left the hangar at the inlet at 9:50 a. m. today for a trial flight over the city and ocean. The airship, after sailing over the city, crossed the meadows and landed at Pleasantville, five miles from Atlantic City.

The big dirigible, which has been specially built for a flight across the Atlantic to Europe, rose about 300 feet as it left the hangar and sailed out over Absecon inlet, at the upper end of Atlantic City, in a northeasterly direction. Vaniman appeared to have perfect control of the Akron.

As soon as the balloon was over the water "Jack" Irwin, the wireless operator on board, dropped his ground wire into the breakers and sent his first message. It read: "It's cold, but things are going great." Leaving the inlet the airship sped down the beach and after sailing along smoothly at a height of about 300 feet a mile, Vaniman turned the air craft inland and floated over the city.

Business in Atlantic City was practically suspended while the craft was in the air.

The morning was misty and there was some delay. City firemen and policemen were sent for to help get the bulky aircraft out of the hangar. In the meantime the crew had climbed on board. The first "member" of the crew placed in the ship was "Trent," the maltese cat which went up with the America from here last year and was rescued along with the crew by steamer Trent.

Besides himself Vaniman's crew is composed of the following: Calvin Vaniman, his brother; Captain Thomas Hottscher, the navigator; "Jack" Irwin, wireless operator; Louis Loud, and George Riffard, a French mechanician.

The airship went up without her lifeboat or the hydro-leavator, which will take the place of the equilibrator which was a feature of the America. The Akron carried two pairs of propellers, but on the long flight across the ocean she will carry three pairs. The gas bag is 258 feet long, or about 30 feet longer than that of the America.

While near Pleasantville the airship came to earth. After remaining on the ground about ten minutes the Akron again went aloft. Vaniman sent the balloon up slowly and sailed rather low over the meadows. Two miles out on the meadows the airship came down to the ground, went up and again came down. This time she was in trouble, but the nature of it was not known at the hangar. At 12:4 the balloon began to move again and appeared to be in tow of a dredge. The bottom of the ship barely cleared the meadow grass. The trouble is believed to have been with the gas bag.

TAFT'S REPLY TO LEADERS.

President to Vote the Republican Ticket at Coming Election.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 4.—In answer to an alleged statement by Democrats in this city that if President Taft were allowed to vote here next Tuesday he would cast his ballot in favor of a majority of the Democratic candidates on the municipal ticket, a letter from the President to party leaders received here last night says in part:

"Since my speech in Akron, Ohio, conditions in Cincinnati have materially changed, and I believe the Republican candidates are deserving. Therefore I can assure you that I will cast my vote for the Republican ticket if I am permitted to vote at the election next Tuesday."

MISSIONARIES IN FLIGHT.

American Baptist Foreign Mission Society Hears from West China.

BOSTON, Nov. 3.—An account of the revolutionary movement in West China has been received at the headquarters of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society in letters from missionaries of the society. The letters were sent from Chung King, Szu Chuen province, where the missionaries from most of the stations, except Cheng Tu, were gathered. Mrs. C. A. Salquist of Minnesota and Dr. and Mrs. E. T. Shields of Pennsylvania were at Kiating, on their way back to their work in Ya Chow after their summer vacation. Other missionaries there were Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Davies of Ohio and Miss Pansy C. Mason of New York.

Rumors reached them Sunday, September 10, of the approach of the rebels. Stores and schools had been closed for some time. The Canadian Methodist missionaries decided to leave for a place of safety and departed Monday morning. The Baptist missionaries hesitated to leave, but made all plans to do so if necessary. Finally, Wednesday, alarming reports were received and it was decided to start down the river. Mrs. Davis had a baby only five days old and it was difficult for her to travel, but as it might be impossible for her to escape in the event of an outbreak of mob violence, it seemed expedient for her to leave with the rest.

On their way down the river the party met a British gunboat bound for Kiating, with orders for the missionaries to depart from the city. Telegraphic communication already had been cut. At Sun Fu the missionaries learned that all foreigners had left the city some days before, so they kept on down the river to Chung King.

One of the consuls ordered all the foreigners to go on down the river, but the missionaries objected to leaving their work and an appeal was made to both the American and British ministers in Pekin, who in turn left the missionaries free to decide as they chose. The missionaries elected to remain in Chung King.

The foreigners in Chung King are not permitted to live in the homes in the city, but have to find shelter on the hills across the river and on small boats. Some of the missionaries were suffering considerable discomfort, owing to the fact that they were on their way back from their summer outings and had only summer clothing with them. All are being taken care of, however, by the missionaries and other foreigners residing in Chung King. At the time the letters were written all was quiet in Chung King.

The party of new missionaries sent out by the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society in September, are detained in Shanghai, where they will remain until it is safe for them to proceed up the Yang tse river.

WILL NOT SEIZE ISLANDS.

Italy More Likely to Make Demonstration Against Syrian Coast.

ROME, Nov. 3.—The Italian government has dropped the plan, announced semi-officially, to seize Turkish islands in the Grecian archipelago. The purpose of the move, as stated, was to bring the war to an end. It is now said to be realized that if the project should be carried out it would not exert sufficient pressure upon Turkey to compel her to yield.

It is now regarded as much more probable that a naval demonstration on the Syrian coast with the eventual occupation of some point will be decided upon.

About 10 days ago the government confidentially notified the powers of the cessation of Ottoman rule in Tripoli and Cyrenaica, but the official proclamation of annexation to Italy has been delayed, as the premier wishes this communication to be preceded by such military operations on the part of Italy as will demonstrate her effectual possession, or the withdrawal of the enemy, thus acknowledging incapacity to hold her position.

MUST GO TO ROME.

New Cardinals to Receive Red Hats in the Holy City.

ROME, Nov. 3.—Pope Pius has decided that all those to be created cardinals at the consistory this month must come to Rome to receive their red hats except the Spanish and Austrian candidates, who by the terms of the concordat, with their countries, must receive the red beretta through their sovereigns.

On other occasions, as in the case of the late Cardinal Satolli, who was papal delegate in the United States, the red hat was sent to America but in the present instance the Pope wishes to avoid the period between this consistory and another later, during which otherwise the new Cardinals would hold office without formal and official sanction.

The expense of sending the papal mission to America would be considerable, whether it fell upon the Holy See or the cardinals themselves, and this feature also influenced His Holiness.

RODGERS BREAKS A RECORD.

Arrives at Imperial Junction, 184 Miles from End of Trip.

IMPERIAL JUNCTION, Cal., Nov. 3.—Calbraith P. Rodgers, the transcontinental flyer, arrived here today, 184 miles from the end of his ocean-to-ocean flight which began at Sheepshead Bay, New York, September 17. Engine trouble brought him down, but not until he had established what is believed to be a new world's record in aviation.

He flew 133 miles from Stoval Siding, Ariz., the desert water tank, where he was forced to spend last night, in 126 minutes, using 15 gallons of gasoline. He started out to fly to Pasadena, without a stop, but when he arrived over this place his motor was "missing" badly and he was forced to alight.

His mechanicians arrived shortly afterward on the aviator's special train and went to work on the motor, but the engine was in such condition that Rodgers thought it impossible to make Pasadena before tomorrow afternoon. It is probable that his arrival may be further delayed until Sunday.

WEATHER HELPS RETAIL TRADE.

Reports to Dun's Review Afford Encouragement As To Business.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Advices to Dun's Review this week from leading cities in the United States afford additional encouragement as to general business conditions although a spirit of caution still prevails in providing for future needs. Clear weather has helped retail demand at Boston and sales are considered fairly satisfactory, while marked progress appears in certain wholesale departments. The betterment in wool industry appears to be well established and most mills have sufficient orders on hand to keep them busy for some time. Shoe manufacturers are quite actively engaged and are buying leather steadily, though in small amounts. Leather is firm and in some instances higher prices have been established.

Bank clearings this week at all leading cities in the United States aggregate $2,940,385,384, a decrease of 1.5 per cent, as compared with the same week last year.

REBELS LOSS HEAVY.

Revolutionists Defeated by Government Troops in Sunday's Battle.

PUERTO CORTEZ, Honduras, Nov. 1.—(delayed in transmission) Government troops defeated 200 revolutionists under the leadership of Ortho Veltzquis, a member of the cabinet of Honduras, in a desperate battle Sunday. The rebel losses are said to be heavy. Veltzquis escaped into Salvador.

TENNIS RANKING LISTS.

William A. Larned Secure in His Place of No. 1 Among the Honored First Ten.

The closing of the lawn tennis season on the out door courts has turned the attention of the players to the ranking lists for the year. In England as well as in America this has been the case, for while the official list has been dispensed with abroad for some years, the selection of the foremost five by the leading expert of England has been received in this country, and it is highly interesting because of its bearing upon the international matches between the British Isles team and the Americans.

For this country Raymond D. Little, as secretary of the ranking committee, which includes Henry W. Slocum, the former national champion, and Miles S. Charlock of the Crescent Athletic Club has sent out a second urgent call for the tournament records of the players so that the list may be issued without delay. In his last call Little states that the delinquents who fail to give data as to their play may receive a poor position on the list.

To the followers of the game the allotment of the honored first 10 appears easy this season. William A. Larned, the seven times national champion, is again secure in his place of No. 1 and in a class by himself. No other player in the world has ever approached the continuous high rating which Larned has achieved. His record stands unparalleled. The second place is generally accorded to Maurice E. McLoughlin, the Californian, who was runner up to Larned this year and who is his teammate on the international trio against the Australians.

Thomas C. Bundy, also of California, is regarded as the logical No 3, which is a drop of one notch for the doughty "Little Napoleon" of the courts on his rating a year ago. But in no manner did Bundy duplicate his work of 1910 in the East this season. Gustave F. Touchard, the young wizard of the racquet, and Melville H. Long, the Californian, are placed respectively as the No. 4 and No. 5. This fills out the top five and gives the larger share of the laurels to the players from the Pacific coast, as was the case last year.

For the second five, and in the order named, the men who find favor are Nathaniel W. Niles of Boston; Theodore Roosevelt Pell, the national indoor champion; Karl H. Behr, who made a sensational re-entry on the courts this season; Carlton R. Gardiner and Edwin P. Larned. Two foridable players, Beals C. Wright, the former national title holder and a member of the international team, and Raymond D. Little, the national doubles champion with Touchard, do not appear on the first-ten list as named.

The opinion prevails that as Wright competed at the National All-Comers at Newport it would be obviously unfair to others to rank him: that to do so would only be a "complimentary" awarding of position and not borne out by his work o nthe courts. Little contested in three tournaments, and he may be placed, and that possibly among the first 10, where he unquestionably belongs, although his work does not quite measure up to several of the other players.

For the third five there is likely to be a sifting out of such players as Richard H. Palmer, Frederick C. Inman, George M. Church, Arthur S. Dabney, Walter Merrill Hall, Dean Mathey, Charles M. Bull, Jr., and a few others. From the activity of the committee the list is generally expected to be issued either late in November or early in December.

The leading five of England are as follows: Anthony F. Wilding the champion; C. P. Dixon, who captained the British Isles team; Arthur H. Lowe, also of the international team; G. A. Thomas and A. R. F. Kingscote, the army champion. Roper Barrett is also bracketed with these men, as is also A. E. Beamish. From this list, the selection of one of England's best critics, it would appear that the Americans in the recent international ties to decide the challengers for the Davis cup defeated as strong a team as England could send against this nation. The expert listing of the British players at this time explains the closeness of the matches on the West Side Tennis Club courts.

A TRIBUTE TO WANAMAKER.

His "Business Family" Holds Jubilee in Philadelphia to Mark Fiftieth Anniversary.

John Wanamaker's "business family," numbering 13,000, in New York, Paris, London and Philadelphia, gathered in the auditorium of the new Philadelphia store for a "jubilee" in honor of Mr. Wanamaker's anniversary. To their employer they gave a deed for the ground along old Buck road and Dank's lane, near Gray's Ferry Bridge, in Philadelphia, where the humble birthplace of Mr. Wanamaker once stood. With the deed the employes gave a handsome jubilee book containing the name of every employe in the Wanamaker stores at home and abroad. The flyleaf inscription read as follows:

To
Honorable John Wanamaker
This Book
Is
Respectfully Offered
By The
Thousands of Loyal Members
Of His Business Family
To Mark
The Fiftieth Anniversary
In the History of The John Wanamaker Stores.
An Appreciation.

To make men and women is an achievement even greater than to build up a business known around the world.

In gratitude for the high example of courage, courtesy and principle, for the affectionate interest and the watchful care and sympathy which for half a century have marked your relations with your employes, we who have had the privilege of co-operating under your leadership for the realization of your ideals subscribe our names in this Book of the Golden Jubilee to stand as an indelible record of our deep appreciation, our unswerving loyalty and wholehearted congratulations on the business-building, the store-building and the man-building that you have so memorably accomplished.

In reply Mr. Wanamaker said he would place the fund in the hands of three trustees and would establish a hospital to be known as the Robert C. Ogden Hospital for Children. He also announced that he had given a farm of 225 acres, with a big house, to be known as the Howard S. Janes. This institution, named after a faithful employe, is to be a home for incapacitated employes, who are without friends to support them or means to help themselves. Three trustees, selected from employes, are to have charge of the home.

A stand had been erected in the new building and here the principal exercises were held. An inspiring feature was the parade of employes, each department giving a distinct note to the spectacle. The procession was an hour passing the reviewing stand. Before the exercises were ended a telegram of congratulations from President Taft was received and read.

A FAMILY DINNER.

Spiced or Pickled Peaches Harmonize With the Braised Beef Heart.

Various Ways of Serving Tripe—Fried in Batter, Rolled or as Lyonnaise.

[Cornelia C. Bedford.

Black Bean Soup.
Braised Beef Heart Sausage Stuffing
Potato Snow Corn Pudding
Apple and Celery Salad Wafers
Caramel Custards
Coffee

For this meal, which is planned to serve six persons, take one pint of black beans and pick them over the day before the soup is to be used. Wash to remove dust, then cover with several quarts of cold water and let soak over night. In the morning drain and place them in a deep kettle or saucepan. Cover with three quarts of fresh cold water, add a scant teaspoonful of salt and heat slowly. Simmer gently for four hours, then in a pan slowly fry together one quarter of a cupful of chopped carrot, one chopped onion and one slice of white turnip cut fine. When browned add these to the soup with two sprigs of parsley, half a small bay leaf, three cloves and a half teaspoonful of peppercorns. Continue the slow simmering until the beans are very soft then rub through a sieve, pressing hard to get as much pulp as possible. Return to the kettle; if too thin boil down slightly until as thick as rich cream then add salt and pepper if necessary. When finished there will be between three and four pints. At this stage the soup may be set away or aside until near the dinner hour; then reheat and when boiling stir in one tablespoonful of flour rubbed to a smooth paste with a little cold water.

Have ready for each person a quarter of a hard boiled egg and a thin slice of lemon; these may be placed in the tureen or soup plates according to the method of serving. As the soup is taken from the fire add one or two tablespoonfuls of sherry and it is ready for immediate service.

A beef heart is composed of what is technically known as non-striated fibre, the result being a piece of exceedingly close textured meat requiring much cooking to make it tender and eatable. It must be first washed thoroughly, running a knife well down into the cavities and cutting through the adjacent walls that all blood clots may be removed. Trim off the tough ear at the top and dry on a cloth. Make a savory stuffing with equal parts of sausage meat and fine stale bread crumbs, adding a large spoonful or more of finely chopped onion and a teaspoonful of chopped parsley. Fill the cavity with this; if any remains roll it in small balls and place in a shallow greased pan. Fasten the top with a couple of stitches, then brown the entire outside of the heart in a spoonful or two of hot fat in a frying pan. Transfer to a deep earthen casserole or baking dish having a tightly fitting cover, laying it in point downward. Pour round it a scant pint of either a thin tomato or savory brown sauce; lacking either use soup stock or plain boiling water. These variations giving different results in the flavor of the finished dish. Cover closely and bake in a moderate oven for four hours; when an earthen dish is used the evaporation will be less than with an agate or metal one, the latter usually necessitating the addition of more sauce during the cooking. It is well to have an extra amount of the sauce on hand there may be sufficient to fill the gravy boat. With this meat a dish of spiced or pickled peaches or a tart jelly will harmonize admirably.

The vegetable pudding will need a pint of canned corn which should be passed through the food chopper. Mix with this one well beaten egg, a half cupful of milk, a high seasoning of salt and pepper and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Turn this into a deep greased dish and bake in a moderate oven until firm in the centre; this will take from 35 to 45 minutes according to its thickness.

One quart of potatoes should be ample for six persons. Pare and boil them as usual. When done drain off the water, sprinkle with salt, cover with a cloth and draw to the side of the fire where they will steam and dry for five minutes. Then with a potato ricer—or using a colander or coarse strainer and a spoon or wooden masher—press them through and let fall into a hot vegetable dish like grains of rice or flakes of snow. Do not press or disturb their lightness and send to the table as quickly as possible.

As a dressing for the salad beat two eggs in a saucepan. Add to them six tablespoonfuls of warm water and three of vinegar, mixing smoothly with the latter a pinch of dry mustard, a half teaspoonful of salt and a third of a teaspoonful of white pepper—a little sugar may also be added if a sweetened dressing is desired. Stir this over the fire in a double boiler until the mixture is very thick, adding a heaping tablespoonful of butter cut in bits and stir until it is absorbed. Pass this through a sieve and set away to chill. Mix equal proportions of diced tart apple and cut blanched celery and add half the dressing. Stir two tablespoonfuls of stiffly whipped cream or the well beaten white of an egg into the remainder of the dressing and pour over the salad in the dish.

Baked Tripe—Take two pounds of thick honeycomb tripe which has been boiled; if it does not seem very tender simmer in boiling water until readily pierced with a straw. Skin and cut fine six large tomatoes or take half a can, using the thick pulp, add to it a half cupful of finely cut white onion two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped parsley, one sweet red pepper freed from seeds and veins and chopped fine, and a half teaspoonful of salt. On six thin slices of fat salt pork spread in a shallow pan lay the tripe; pour over the tomato mixture then six tablespoonfuls of melted butter and bake in a moderate oven for one hour.

Tripe in Batter—Cut some tender tripe in pieces two by three inches; beat one egg, add to it one cupful of milk, one quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper, one scant teaspoonful of baking powder and sifted flour to make a thin drop batter. Dip each piece of tripe in this and drop, two or three at a time, into deep, smoking fat, fry golden brown and drain on soft paper before serving.

Tripe Rolls—Crumble fine, enough to measure one cupful and a half. Add to this a tablespoonful of very finely chopped onion, one tablespoonful of chopped celery, a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, three dashes of pepper and four tablespoonfuls of melted butter; mix all thoroughly together. Have some plain-boiled tripe into pieces three by six inches, spread each with the filling and roll fastening with a toothpick. Lay on a baking dish, baste each with a little melted butter and bake until golden brown. These are good either hot or cold.

Lyonnaise Tripe—Cut a pound or more of tripe into inch squares. Melt a large tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan, add two tablespoonfuls of chopped onion and cook slowly until the onion begins to color. Add the tripe, season with salt and pepper and toss until the butter is absorbed and the tripe lightly colored. Sprinkle with a tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley and dish.

Pickled Tripe—Boil together for five minutes one pint of good vinegar, one half a teaspoonful of salt, one dozen peppercorns, six cloves, half a small bay leaf, a tiny bit of mace and one small onion cut fine. Pour while hot over several pounds of tripe placed in a stone crock or glass jar and keep in a cold place.

"VIRGINIA OF THE RHODESIANS."

Graphic Picture of Life in South Africa, from the Pen of Cynthia Stockley.

In "Virginia of the Rhodesians" the author, Cynthia Stockley, has given a graphic picture of life in South Africa. The customs and habits, the pleasures and pastimes of the English population are vividly portrayed, the author having the power of making her characters live, while the incidents depicted, including a native uprising, are full of life and color. The book is not a consecutive story, but consists of a series of sketches, in which the same people appear. As the title indicates, the scenes are laid in Rhodesia, but about 15 years ago. The happy, care-free, unconventional life, the "Oh-let-things-rip" atmosphere, pervades the book. In spite of its charm there is an underlying note of cynicism and sadness which leaves an unpleasant impression upon the reader.

Virginia is a worldly-wise young woman of 23 years, looking upon womankind as her natural enemy and upon man as her lawful prey. She is rather unconventional, very much inclined to flirting and has a bad habit of making cynical remarks, such as "I'm sure I'm not the kind of girl to waste any time or feeling upon other women—I know too much about them." However, the other women characters are just as bad, always sparring with each other and saying disagreeable things in the sweetest way imaginable. There is too much of this sort of thing to be wholly agreeable. Many of the men are incorrigible flirts, paying court to other men's wives, while some are perfect blackguards, but blackguards do not frighten Virginia. On the contrary, "I could love a blackguard," she says, "but not a fat blackguard."

The titles of the various chapters give an idea of their contents. The first "A Little Season of Love and Laughter," is a tale of passionate love and longing; "Twards the Mist Where the Breakers Moan" tells how two persons in trying to find the Islands of the Blest find only the breakers instead; "The Marrying of Kat" shows the cleverness of Kat's bride, to whom he had been engaged nine years, in turning his obvious dislike into passionate love; "And a Horror of Outer Darkness" is a sequel to the first sketch, "A Little Season of Love and Laughter;" "In Kat's Cradles" the cleverness of Mrs. Kat is again to the front, but she carries things with too high a hand and the inevitable happens; "Wild Oats" and "The Way of a Serpent on the Rock" describe Virginia's experiences in playing with fire; "And the End of It's Sittin' and Thinkin'" is Virginia's love story.

TO BURN OIL FUEL.

Location of the Bunkers in the New Destroyers Believed to Ensure Greater Safety.

The new torpedo boat destroyers, contracts for the construction of which have recently been made by the Navy Department, will be equipped with oil-burning engines. Oil will be the only fuel used, and a decided innovation will be the location of the bunkers, which are to be placed forward and aft of the machinery. The oil bunkers have heretofore been placed in the fireroomes. It is thought that the new arrangement will contribute to the safety of the vessels.

The speed of the boats will be 29 knots, half a knot less than the last destroyers constructed under authority of Congress in the appropriations for the last fiscal year. The reduction in speed will bring about a greater percentage of power used and also provide additional space for supplies and for the crew. The boats will carry reciprocating engines for cruising. The New York Shipbuilding Company will construct one of the destroyers at a cost of $877,500. This boat will be equipped with Curtis turbines.

IN THE BARLEY.

[Louise Imogen Guiney, in McClure's Magazine.]

Up in the barley a wind began;
Over their levels of gold it ran;
Plunged into them.
And furrowed through them
Roomy channels the height of a man,
Deep in the dark it dipped and shined,
And spake like a vision to all the blind;
Bye not knowing,
The law of the flowing,
Real as water flowed the wind.
I was a child and it seemed to me
A hilltop river set rolling free;
As it was ever
The way of a river,
Somewhere a well-head—somewhere a sea!
Through flexile banks the unbodied stream
Poured its life and mine in a dream.
Currents nameless,
Measureless, nameless
Clave me, too, with rustle and gleam.
If I come back to the fields today
With storm in a time-worn heart, I pray
The sun to sift it,
The wind to lift it,
The barley floods to wash it away;
For here would I lie on the long-loved ground,
Seeing one sight and hearing one sound,
No strife to wake me,
No doom to o'ertake me,
In that sweet harvest happily drowned

THE ANNUAL LICENSE QUESTION.

It is perhaps unfortunate in a way that the sentiment of the cities and towns of Rhode Island must be tested every year on the question whether or not liquor shall be sold legally, but the court has so decided and under the present statute there seems to be no help for it. It would seem that once in, say, three or five years would be often enough to ascertain the sentiment of a community on any question of public policy or morals.

In the matter of the sale of liquor, those who are opposed to license are apt to become indifferent and neglect to vote, while many of those who favor it make their living by the business and so are working for their interests all through the year. It would necessarily be the same if the sale of groceries or dry goods, or the printing of newspapers, were the issue.

Again, there are in Newport many good and law-abiding citizens who have no faith whatever that if the vote should be against license and the majority not large there would be the slightest attempt by the authorities to enforce the prohibition, and so a further contempt for law would be encouraged. Whether more or less liquor would be sold under license or no license is a mooted question among those not engaged in the business, but it is quite evident that brewers and liquor dealers generally believe it to be to their interests for the people to vote for license. Did they believe otherwise, would they work so hard and spend so much money in the interest of license?

The Daily News believes the liquor saloon in any community to be an unmitigated nuisance, socially, morally and financially, and would therefore be glad to see it abolished. However, with friends of good government lukewarm and divided, and with the saloon interest forever at work for its perpetuation, and the authorities playing low politics all the time, the end of the saloon is not yet in sight.

REPUBLICAN PROSPECTS.

It is not regarded as good policy for a party leader to admit even the possibility of defeat, and the President's audience in Chicago gasped when he intimated that the Republicans might not win next year and pledged his party to the loyal support of a Democratic administration if such should be the result of the next election.

Taft has had the difficult task of being radical enough for one end of his party and conservative enough for the other. He has succeeded uncommonly well in maintaining a moderate attitude, but that attitude does not arouse enthusiasm. It is the extremes which evoke enthusiasm, but it is not always the extremes which bring out the votes. The Republican party has suffered a good deal from the antagonisms between the two factions and the progressives are determined to bring about the nomination of a more radical man, Senator La Follette being the tentative beneficiary of their passion for more drastic regulation of corporate business.

The custom of re-nominating a President is so well established that to lay him aside for some one else would create great ill feeling in the party and menace its success. There are also indications that the passion for radical legislation is waning. The Texas member of the Democratic national committee says the Democrats of his state are becoming conservative, and when Texas Democrats are conservative it is hardly likely that radicalism would carry the whole of the Republican party.

Governor Colquitt of Texas says: "We can afford to take a rest from untried laws and legislative theories." Governor O'Neal of Alabama says: "The election was a clear, positive and unambiguous mandate by the people for the restoration of conservatism." Several Republican governors have expressed the same sentiments.

The radicals have impaired the Republican chances, while the prospects of the Democrats have improved by the subsidence of Bryanism and some other infirmities that the party is "safe and sane." Taft will be renominated and the contest between the parties will be a good deal closer than some recent elections.

DISPENSING WITH SERVANTS.

In no place have modern methods been more needed or more welcome than in the home. The domestic problem is far from the solving point and seems to be constantly growing more difficult, as each year finds servants fewer and more highly paid, and also less efficient and willing. The increased cost of living has placed them outside the calculations of the wage earner's family and only the well-to-do can really afford their assistance. Many also who are able to employ them will not do so as in almost every case the mistress of the house not only supervises all work if she wishes it done well, but also must assist in nearly all the tasks in every part of the house. Almost invariably the mistress does most of the cooking; as a servant who has any knowledge of this art quickly graduates from maid to cook, with higher wages and more privileges. Then the employer, who probably has taught her how to cook hoping that in time she would fill that place in the household, sees her depart for a new home while she herself must struggle with another "green hand", with no hope of better results.

It is no wonder that under these conditions, which prevail all over the country, domestic science is receiving a great deal of attention from the thinking women of the day. They are making it a study in all places where women congregate and are learning that there lies the way out of their difficulty. It is a well known saying which doctors agree in supporting, that housework is the healthiest of occupations for women if it is not overdone or undertaken with too few conveniences. Now that many inventors are bringing their genius to bear on things which will lighten the labors of the housewife, if the women will only make the effort to install in their homes labor-saving devices as they are perfected and proved worthy, housework will soon emerge from the shadows and take its rightful place as a progressive occupation in which all women who have pride in their health and homes will be skilled.

The tendency of all modern household inventions is to save steps and time and a great deal of the hard work of the home, and if they do not in all cases solve the servant problem many women who do the work alone by the aid of these inventions which once they shared with a maid do it quickly and easily, with no friction in the kitchen, and reflect with gratitude that these helps are always at hand with no days off and will not leave at a day's notice. The woman who is able and willing to superintend the affairs of the home with the help of these new devices will find that she is happier and healthier and that home means more to her in the fullest sense of the word than it did when she was puzzling over the servant problem and spending weary hours in trying to solve it. The study of domestic science is one in which all women may well engage, for it has been rightly said that the kitchen is the heart of the home.

A SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM.

The delay in the establishment of Pulitzer's school of journalism at Columbia University, for which he made contingent provision eight years ago, was due in great measure to the many doubts expressed as to the practicability of teaching newspaper work in a school. His death, however, makes it certain that the school will presently be established and the experiment tried under the most favorable auspices. There is a million dollars in hand for it and another million contingent on the experiment giving good results at the end of three years.

The difficulty about teaching journalism is that newspaper men are employes and their methods must be those of the concern which hires them. These methods differ widely. Pulitzer showed his breadth of view when he selected the leading editors of the New York Sun and the New York Evening Post, among others, as members of the advisory board of his proposed school, for both those newspapers have been habitually caustic in their allusions to Pulitzer and the World. A man who had been trained in the office of the World would hardly be at home in the office of the Evening Post and would probably need to learn many things and unlearn some others if he went to the Sun. The question is whether the same school could train men for these three newspapers.

Doubtless there is a good deal of politics and economics which can be well taught in a school, but the practical and difficult question is whether the graduate of the school would have an opportunity to practice what he had learned in any newspaper office where he might succeed in securing employment. Pulitzer was a tremendous success as a journalist, without training, and believed that newspaper work could be taught. That raises a strong presumption that there is merit in the idea of training in school for the work and we shall ascertain now whether newspaper work can be learned outside a newspaper office. The work is not a science, like law or medicine or theology, and yet a man may obtain in a school a great deal of training which city editors and managing editors have no time to give.

President Taft has decided that he will go to Cincinnati to register, in order that he may vote next Tuesday. He sent his papers to Cincinnati too late, and the election board decided that he could not vote unless he appeared in person next Monday and swore that he was a qualified elector, it will take some lively hustling for the President to go from Hot Springs, Va., to Cincinnati in time, but he will do it and thus set an example for many a voter who allows a small matter to prevent him from casting his ballot.

A number of prominent Connecticut women have started a movement to check the rising tide, their purpose is expressed in the call being "to save Connecticut from the terrors and embarrassments of woman suffrage." It is proposed to work systematically before the legislature when the suffragists make their appeal next winter for an amendment to the constitution. With woman against woman, it ought to be an interesting contest.

The situation in China does not clear, although the nationalists or revolutionists have forced the throne to make sweeping concessions. While the government, acting under dictation of the National Assembly, pardons rebels, grants general amnesties and promises not to employ force against the rebels, the war office is proceeding in the work of checking the uprising. It is still a much muddled situation.

Recently at Camden, N. J., Vice President Sherman showed a suit of men's clothing, of American make and all wool, the cost of which he said was $18.44. The New York World recalls that in 1882 Mr. Sherman, not then Vice President, showed himself in a suit of clothing which he said cost $7, while his whole outfit from collar to socks cost $9.25.

The Supreme Court of the United States has the initiative and referendum before it, and is expected to decide the question as quickly as possible. It is a matter in which many states are already or are rapidly becoming interested.

General W. T. Sherman would probably see reason to repeat his famous opinion of war, were he living and reading the news from China today.

MANUFACTURED EXPORTS MAY EXCEED $1,000,000,000.

The value of manufactures passing out of the United States in the calendar year 1911 may exceed one billion dollars. This estimate is based upon figures of the bureau of statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor, covering the exports of manufactures in the nine months ending with September 1911, which amount to $478,500,000 for finished manufactures and $240,500,000 for manufactures for further use in manufacturing, making the total exports of manufactures in the period named $719,000,000, against $612,000,000 in the like period of 1910.

The increase in the nine months of 1911 over the like period of 1910 is 17.48 per cent, and in case the increase during the remainder of the year continues at the same rates the total value of manufactures passing to foreign countries during 1911 will be about $970,000,000. When to this is added the value of manufactures going to Alaska, Porto Rico and Hawaii, not included in the exports to foreign countries, the total outward movement of manufactures from continental United States in 1911 will pass the billion-dollar line. This will bring the total value of manufactures exported in 1911 to more than twice that of 10 years ago and more than five times that of 20 years ago, the export of manufactures in 1901 having been $147,500,000, and in 1891 about $185,000,000.

THE FAMED JOHNNY-CAKE.

[National Magazine.]

One of the products for which Rhode Island is famous is a variety of corn commonly called "Johnny-cake corn," and which is said to flourish only in Rhode Island and in a small area of Connecticut lying across the boundary and adjacent to the shore of Long Island sound. There is something in the humidity of the air or the salty breeze from the ocean that conduces to make "Johnny-cake corn" a chosen food for the epicure. It has been so intelligently propagated and developed that not only is the tip of the ear well covered with kernels, but it is also roundly tipped with kernels at the shoulder, and the stem has become so small and attenuated that it is sometimes called "pipe-stem corn." Another feature of interest to remember is the belief that this corn must be ground in the picturesque old-fashioned windmills to insure its finest flavor when cooked. Rhode Island's "Johnny-cake" is famous, and the fact that it is cooked on a griddle-iron rather than by baking in the oven, as in some sections, will interest the cooks.

CANADA'S ELECTION CLOSE.

Official returns from 195 of the 221 constituencies in Canada indicate that the Laurier government and reciprocity were beaten by a comparatively small popular vote. In the 195 constituencies 1,001,566 votes were cast, and the majority against Laurier and reciprocity was only 35,774. In the city of Toronto alone the popular majority for the Conservatives was 25,000.

The relatively slight popular majority by which the Liberals were beaten shows that, after all, a decidedly large element was in favor of reciprocity. The earlier returns indicated that the sentiment against the proposition was overwhelming, but the official figures greatly modify the extent of the Liberal defeat.

Town Council Business—Funeral of Frederick M. Sherman—A Silver Wedding Celebration.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

A special meeting of the town council was held Friday evening to canvass the voting list. Members present were Warren R. Sherman, Robert H. Manchester, Henry F. Anthony, Minot A. Steele and Thomas J. Sweet.

In probate court Alfred B. Sprout, Chester E. Walker and Harry Poole were appointed appraisers of the estate of Mary Ann DeBlois.

The matter of the revocation of the liquor license of Joseph F. Sullivan, referred to this time, was taken up and dismissed.

The petition of Jesse Vining and wife of Newport, to be allowed damages resulting from an automobile accident at the bridge leading into St. Mary's Church property, was received and the clerk was directed to notify the trustees of the church property.

The council organized as a board of canvassers and made a final canvass of the voting list, preparatory to the election, November 7.

The following bills were ordered paid: Charles Carr, surveyor, building stone road on Hedly street, $172.75; W. W. Anthony, surveyor, building stone road and repairs, in district No. 1, $262.17; John B. Cornell, services as janitor of town hall, $32.50; Emeline D. Eldredge, clerk, salary of school committee, $100; Thomas J. Sweet, council fees this session, $10.

The funeral of Frederick M. Sherman took place Friday at his late home on the East Main road, Rev. Newman Lawrence of St. Mary's Church reading the burial service, the latter part of I Corinthians XV. and the poem, "Thy will be done," which was a favorite with Mr. Sherman. The floral offerings were a large pillow of white chrysanthemums with the word "Father" in purple letters in the centre, from his son, Mr. Edgar M. Sherman, and wife; a bouquet of cream rosebuds tied with purple illusion from his daughter, Mrs. Ella W. Sisson, and a bouquet of white pinks tied with lavender chiffon from his two grandsons, Ernest and Lester Sisson. The burial was in St. Mary's Churchyard, beside his wife, who died many years ago, the bearers being Warren R. Sherman, Thomas J. Sweet, Nahum Greene and Alfred H. Borden.

The attendance was quite small, as there were few relatives and since the marriage of his son, a number of years ago, he had lived alone in his pretty little cottage nearly opposite Fair hall. In order to be near his father, his son had recently built a bungalow in the vicinity and during the past six months had been attending to his necessities. His wife was Miss Emily J. Slocum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abial Slocum.

Friday evening occurred the celebration of the twenty-fifth marriage anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Anthony, for which 125 invitations were issued, and with the exception of those sent to London, Chicago and a few other distant cities were generally accepted. The house had been decorated for the occasion, Mrs. William N. Randall of Riverside having the matter in charge. On each corner of the wide bay window were taper evergreen trees with a frieze of evergreen, and at the left in an alcove an arch of evergreen rising from two large trees and having in large white figures, 1886—1911. The trees were thickly studded with white and purple chrysanthemums and connected by broad white ribbon and streamers. The folding doors between the parlor and music room had a large white bell with white festooned across the doors and down the sides. Chrysanthemums decorated the music room and dining room and were scattered throughout the house, Mr. Archie Alty of Newport and Mr. Louis R. Chase were ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony, who were unattended, received their guests beneath the arch, Mrs. Anthony wearing an imported gown of violet velvet with an Egyptian scarf of white lace with silver ornaments which had been sent to her by a friend traveling abroad, and a large cluster of bride roses on her waist and one in her hair.

Among the guests was Rev. William H. Allen of the Brayton Methodist Episcopal Church, Fall River, who at the time of their marriage was located in Portsmouth and performed the ceremony. In a happy little speech he said many pleasant things and partially repeated the former service. He also read three verses of a poem "The Worn Wedding Ring," and offered prayer.

Mr. Foley, leader of the Island Park summer orchestra, with the violin and Mr. Tillson at the piano played throughout the evening. Miss Carolyn D. Anthony sang three selections. A buffet luncheon was served in the dining room. Miss Minnie Brophy and Miss Harrison of Little Compton had charge of the presents, which included a large variety of beautiful and useful articles, principally of silver, and a considerable sum of money in silver coins.

Among the guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Chappell M. Turner and Mrs. Clarence A. Carr of Newport, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sisson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sisson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hathaway of Fall River, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Munro, Mrs. William N. Randall and Mr. Norman Randall of Riverside, and Miss Amelia Perry of Pawtucket.

Mrs. William F. Brayton, Mrs. Arthur Smith and Mrs. J. Sullivan assisted at the luncheon.

The Ladies' Social of the Christian Church held an all-day meeting with Mrs. Kate Bailey on Thursday. The attendance was smaller than usual for such a meeting.

A reception and dinner was held at the Wagstaff house, Island Park, in honor of the return of Mr. Josiah Wagstaff from an extended tour through various parts of England. There were guests present from Fall River, Providence, Pawtucket and Ashton. His journey was made in connection with the settlement of the estate of the late Samuel Wagstaff.

Most of those who have eaten Mr. Thomas J. Sweet's chowders think he is unequalled in that line, and many other good things will be served at the supper of the Christian Church.

Mrs. Susan Main accompanied her sister, Mrs. Robert P. Gifford, and Mr. Gifford from the Rhode Island Quarterly meeting to their home in Providence for a visit.

A case of scarlet fever is reported on Braman's lane.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church had a roast beef supper at their meeting this week.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union met with Mrs. Eunice A. Greene this week, but owing to the sudden cold snap the attendance was small.

Miss Susan Cornell went Friday to Mrs. Mary Heath's, to make her home until there is an opening at the Home for the Aged in Newport.

Mrs. Eunice A. Greene is visiting her daughter, Mrs. William H. Allen, and Rev. Mr. Allen in Fall River.

Mrs. Phebe Durfee of South Portsmouth, one of the oldest residents, who was dangerously ill the first of this week, is better.

Miss Cora Allen of Newport is with her sister, Mrs. Daniel A. Carter, who gains slowly.

Mrs. Frederick A. Cooke entertained St. Paul's guild Friday afternoon. There was a full attendance.

THE WEATHER.

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—Forecast for Boston and vicinity—Fair tonight and Sunday; moderate, southwesterly winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

There is a considerable amount of partly cloudy to cloudy sky over the greater portion of the country, the only extensive area of clear weather being in the middle and southern Rocky mountain districts and the upper Missouri valley. But little rain has been reported during the past 24 hours. Light amounts occurred at widely-scattered points in the middle and eastern Gulf states, and at a few stations in the British Northwest. The area of marked high pressure that has controlled the weather, over practically the entire country for the past several days, and which was central this morning in the Ohio valley, has moved eastward and now extends along the middle Atlantic coast. The pressure continues above the normal westward through the central valleys and middle Rocky mountain region, to the northern Pacific slope. The temperature has risen somewhat over all sections of the country and is now not far from the seasonal average. In New York at 8 a. m. it was 36, Washington 34, Jacksonville 56, St. Louis 38, Chicago 36, St. Paul 32, Des Moines 34, Kansas City 36, Denver 34, San Francisco 52 and Portland, Oregon, 50.

TIME OF YEAR UNUSUAL.

Present Visit of Fleet May Have Bearing for Narragansett Bay Base.

Large Liberty Parties Ashore, With Some Money Left from Their New York Stay.

The present unseasonable visit of the battleships to Narragansett bay, which is to be followed by the appearance of the Second squadron when the First is gone, may have a significance in relation to the agitation regarding the development of the bay as a real naval base and the closing of various navy yards along the coast which in the very nature of their surroundings can never become naval bases. Political influence has so far kept open yards which could not grow with the times, and this applies to New York and Boston as well as the others. It may be hard to break these ones, this influence, though the civil service laws have taken out of the yards much of the politicians' interest.

Narragansett bay offers opportunities for any sort of expansion which the future growth of the navy may demand. It was once alleged that the battleships came to Newport only that the officers might be entertained socially, and this report became so generally circulated and believed that the ships were kept away from here for some years, except now and then for a brief call. There was not so much drilling then as now, and it was noticed that Bar Harbor and other summer resorts frequently had the ships there. Things are different now and there are no long stops in port, just enough, one might say, to give the officers and men the occasional shore liberty which they require, and this frequently at the week-end.

Coming at this season the officers cannot be hoping for much entertainment and Admiral Osterhaus has something entirely different in mind. If they are not here actually for a few weeks' stay, but simply to make Narragansett bay a base for the drill tactics during that period. They will be in Saturdays and Sundays, but may be about anywhere the rest of the time provided the weather is reasonably good. The Atlantic fleet has two months to spend before it is due on the Southern drill grounds, with Guantanamo bay as a base, as Provincetown is the summer base. During this time the ships will keep at squadron drill, with this bay and Hampton Roads as bases, except that December 10 the various ships will go to their home yards for such little overhauling as they may require and the granting of general liberty to the men.

The First squadron arrived here just after a pay day and the Second will be here at the time the next arrives. The fifth of the month is the regular pay day in the navy, except that it is advanced sometimes just before a holiday and, as occurrs this month, by a holiday and, as occurs this month, by falling on Sunday. Pay day for even one of the big battleships while in port at a place like this means much to the merchants and hotel men, so that it is natural that preparations have been made in the stores along the street for the coming of the ships. Of course none of them have their pockets bulging with money, as they have not just come from a long sea voyage or the drill grounds, where they have no opportunity to spend their money. The ships are only recently out of their home yards, where the men have had plenty of liberty, and that they might not be "broke" in New York there was a distribution of funds by the paymaster for the time which had then expired since last pay day.

While the regulations did not require a salute when the fleet arrived Friday, there was some gun fire this morning and there will be more or less during their stay here, as there are now three admirals and a colonel here and when they visit they must receive honors.

The ships are so anchored that there is excellent opportunity to view them at close range by a trip across to Jamestown, and the sail is being taken by many. They left New York about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon and came along leisurely at eight knots speed until 11 o'clock, when it was increased to 12 and 15.

This morning Colonel Coffin called on Admiral Osterhaus and a salute was fired on flagship Connecticut. This afternoon Admiral Osterhaus called on Colonel Coffin and the saluting battery at Fort Adams boomed.

The streets were filled with uniforms this afternoon. In observance of the regular half-holiday Saturday liberty parties were told off from the ships, sixteen and forty directly after dinner and so hundreds of men in uniform filled up to Thames street from the sailor's landing places in the early afternoon. The battleship squadron is using Commercial, Sullivan's and Long wharves for landing the enlisted men while the soldiers came over on the launch as usual and the apprentice seamen came by trolley. It seems as if there were great numbers of enlisted strangers to the city in the parties from the ships, and old service men who stood on the street looking for possible former shipmates remarked that they were all new to them. One sailor, when asked if today was pay day, said "No. It was given us for New York but we have enough left to come ashore on." The squadron is to remain here until the seventeenth, which will give the men one more liberty ashore in Newport.

A score or more of the officers attached to the fleet came ashore early this afternoon and began their walking tours.

The number of Newporters in the fleet forms a small colony. On the North Dakota alone are Chief Turret Captain A. B. McCreary, Chief Yeoman M. J. Kirwin, Chief Electrician Alfred Gilson, Captain's Mate E. Ryder, Electrician first class, D. H. Ryer and others.

Friday night there was but two of the great fleets of war craft still left at anchor in New York waters, the Delaware and Florida. The latter took on ammunition during the day and is to start on her trial tests, while the Delaware is to return to the New York navy yard. The reserve torpedo fleet has already gone to the yard to be laid up, while the Dupont, Porter and Blakeley are here with orders attaching them to the Torpedo Station. The two latter are Herreshoff-built craft and in their day were considered the finest of their class, but now while many still consider them to be A 1 they are being put in reserve because newer and larger boats have taken their places.

As the First squadron has arrived here, so the Second is reported at Hampton Roads, but the Kansas at New York is steamed to the Norfolk navy yard. The mobilization of the Pacific fleet at Los Angeles, Cal., has also ended and the ships have been ordered to various points.

"ROME TO THE PHILIPPINES."

Mr. Fitzgerald's Descriptions of the Beautiful Views Seen in His Travels.

Mr. Desmond Fitzgerald gave an interesting lecture at Masonic hall Friday evening for the benefit of the Newport Animal Refuge, at which there was a fair sized audience. It was entitled "From Rome to the Philippines," and was chiefly devoted to interesting descriptions of the places shown on the screen and incidents of Mr. Fitzgerald's travels connected with them.

The lecturer started in Rome, showing the Coliseum and other historic buildings; then on to Florence and Venice, next to Oberammergau, where scenes of the Passion Play were shown; then to the Swiss Alps, to several old German towns; Paris, London and several of the old Cathedral towns, and to Spain. The lecture concluded with views of the Yellowstone Park and scenes in the Philippines.

Mr. Fitzgerald talked in a pleasant conversational manner, and his descriptions brought out more clearly the pictures as they were shown. The colored views were especially pleasing.

A NEW FOOTBALL CUP.

Offered by Mr. Beeckman for a Series of Games Between Battleship Teams.

In a desire to do something for the enlisted men of the battleship fleet Mr. R. L. Beeckman has offered a handsome silver cup to be competed for by the football teams of the ships now here. He has communicated with Rear Admiral Osterhaus, commander-in-chief of the fleet, and has received notice that the admiral has taken the offer under consideration and will give a reply in a few days. It is expected that there will be question about this and that a reply to Mr. Beeckman's letter will be in hand shortly and arrangements will be made to have the games played within the next two weeks.

Several of the ships have strong football teams and the rivalry between them is lively. During the stay of the fleet in New York last week several interesting ship-against-ship contests took place on the football field and the matches for the Beeckman cup will undoubtedly be interesting not only to the men of the fleet but to the citizens of Newport as well. It is hoped to secure the Civic League lot on Broadway for the games, that the public may be able to see them.

SOME MENHADEN CAUGHT.

Things are pretty quiet in the fishing business today. The Winona, Captain Lewis, had two barrels of shad, one of mixed fish, 100 pounds of cod and five barrels of menhaden. The menhaden are the surprise. It is out of season for them, but those caught were so fat that they looked good for food. They are good for food, too, except that they have so many bones. J. S. Clarke from Point Judith had six barrels of mixed fish.

The tide does not favor the amateur tautog fishermen very well, being high about 6 p. m., but that will not prevent many from going over to the Beavertail shore and the channel shore off Castle hill. The fishing last Sunday was fine and the crabs still hold out for bait.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. Alexander J. McAdam has moved with his family to Attleboro, Mass.

—Chief Gunner's Mate Charles T. Baldwin, attached to the North Dakota, is visiting his family in this city.

—Mrs. C. J. Fitting of the Cape Elizabeth wireless Station, Maine, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. H. James on Chestnut street.

—The Newton, which took part in the rescue last Sunday, is hauled out at the shipyard for work on her shaft and outboard bearing.

—A number of old torpedoes, good only for show purposes, were shipped today from the Torpedo Station for the new training station at Chicago.

—Tuesday next being a legal holiday, the banks and public offices will be closed, the postoffice will have holiday hours, and the liquor saloons will not be open.

—This morning 1,008 pieces of freight arrived for the Training Station by boat and this shipment went on top of the remains of another large shipment received early in the week.

—Flagship Patience of the Outer Fountain Fishing Club is hauled out for the winter at Williams & Manchester's, where also Captain Rose's power smack Eva is out for repairs.

—The women players of the Manetuck Tennis Club did not meet the Excelsior Club in Bristol today, as intended, the weather being too cold and the courts not in good condition.

—C. R. Wheeler, E. G. Gordon, F. E. Walker and H. B. Lawrence of New York and L. E. Wilson, W. R. Rodserman and Frank Rice of Boston are among the recent arrivals at the Perry House.

—It is expected that the football game at the Training Station Sunday will draw a large crowd, both of those of the service and civilians, and hence extra cars will be run to accommodate those who go.

—The ambulance was called to the Fountain House this morning to convey John Curran to the hospital. He sustained a paralytic shock two days ago which affected the lower part of his body and it was thought best to take him to the hospital.

—The report of the postal savings department at the postoffice, for the first month's business, is satisfactory, according to Postmaster Burlingame. No figures will be available for publication for some time yet, however.

—Miss Susan Johnston, a niece of the late Mrs. Richard T. Wilson and cousin of Mrs. Ogden Goelet, M. Orme Wilson and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., was married today in Knoxville, Tenn., to Mr. David Carpenter Chapman of New York.

—A man going out Green End road early Friday morning reported that he saw what appeared to be a steamer on fire about five miles off shore, with another steamer going to her assistance. The life saving station men saw nothing of the kind and no burning steamer has been reported anywhere.

—There will be a street parade this evening before the Democratic rally. The band will start from Morton avenue and play up to and including Washington square, so that all the people down town may know there is a rally. Mr. Theodore Francis Greene of Providence has been added to the list of speakers.

ACTION AT TRIPOLI DENOUNCED.

Board to Draw Up Protest for Parliaments of the World.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 4.—A heated denunciation of the alleged atrocities inflicted upon prisoners of war, the wounded, the women and children by the Italians at Tripoli occupied the Chamber of Deputies today, and resulted in the appointment of a committee to draw up a protest for presentation to the parliaments of the world.

SPRING SESSION FAVORED.

Strong Vote for Two One-Day Meetings by the School Teachers.

Educational Subjects Discussed at Rhode Island Institute of Instruction in Providence.

Edward Howard Griggs of New York closed the first day's session of the sixty seventh annual meeting of the Rhode Island Institute of Instruction in Providence Friday evening with an interesting address on what people should and should not do in their spare time. The other speaker was P. P. Claxton, commissioner of education for the United States, who told of "Education and the State."

The result of the vote taken during the day on the question of holding a one-day meeting in the fall and a similar meeting in the spring was announced, the decision being nearly four to one in favor of holding another session in the spring.

Addresses on educational subjects were heard by more than 2,000 Rhode Island teachers in the morning. Departmental meetings were attended by large numbers in the afternoon and an audience which nearly filled the auditorium of Infantry hall heard the evening program.

William H. Holmes, Jr., president of the Institute and superintendent of schools at Westerly, presided at the morning session. The principal speakers were Lieutenant Governor Zenas W. Bliss, who welcomed the teachers in behalf of the state; Dr. William H. P. Faunce, president of Brown University, who spoke on the value of extension courses; L. D. Harvey, president of Stout Institute, Menominee, Wis., whose subject was "More and Better Education for Those Leaving School Too Early," and Dr. H. H. Goddard, director of research, training school, Vineland, N. J., who talked on "The Child—Subnormal and Supernormal."

The afternoon was devoted to department meetings at the Classical and Technical high schools, Infantry hall and the Normal School. Many noted educators addressed the gatherings.

The high school section had its meeting in the lecture room of the Classical high school. Sidney A. Sherman presided and Charles R. Harper, principal of the Central high school of Syracuse, N. Y., delivered an interesting address, taking for his subject "The School for School Work." Mr. Harper's address was followed by a general discussion.

Silas T. Nye presided at the meeting of the grammar school section, which was held in the school hall of the Technical high school. Two interesting addresses, one upon "Medical Inspection of School Children as Regards Mental Deficiency," and the second upon "Moral Education of Our Boys and Girls," were delivered. The former subject was discussed by Dr. Joseph H. Ladd, principal of the Rhode Island School for Feeble-Minded Children, while Dr. G. Stanley Hall, president of Clark University, spoke on the latter.

One of the most interesting of the meetings was that held by the primary and kindergarten sections, at Infantry hall, Miss Della S. Freeman presided at this gathering. Rev. Anna Garlin Spencer of the New York School of Philanthropy, and Miss Patty Smith Hill of the Teachers' College of Columbia University, were the speakers. Mrs. Spencer spoke on "The Public School and the Immigrant Child," and Miss Hill entertained her audience with a discussion of "What Froebel Has Contributed to Elementary Education."

The Village and Country section had its session in Normal School hall. There was a good-sized gathering present when President John L. Alger called the meeting to order. The program of addresses at this meeting was the most extended of any of the gatherings, four subjects being discussed by the same number of speakers. "A Study of Home Industries That Produce Food" was the topic spoken on by W. G. Vinal, instructor at the Normal School. Miss Lillian E. Knowles of Narragansett Pier took for her subject "Combining Classes in Rural Schools," and Miss Adelaide Patterson discussed "Telling Stories to Children." The final address was delivered by President L. D. Harvey of Stout Institute, Menominee, Wis., who spoke on "The Teaching of Arithmetic in the Public Schools."

The last of the meetings held in the afternoon was that of the Rhode Island Association of Teachers of Drawing and Manual Arts in the gymnasium of the Normal School. Huger Elliott, director of the Rhode Island School of Design, presided. There was but one address, by Miss Marion Hamilton, who spoke on "Elementary Manual Training." After the meeting the members inspected an exhibition of drawings, which had been arranged in the gymnasium.

NAVAL OFFICERS PUNISHED.

President Taft Approves Court-Martial Sentences of Four Offenders on the Independence.

President Taft has approved the court-martial sentences of the following officers of receiving ship Independence on the Pacific coast:

Paymaster Arthur M. Pippin, imprisonment at hard labor for seven years and dismissal from the navy for alleged embezzlement, fraud, scandalous conduct and culpable negligence.

Paymaster's Clerk James V. Fuller, (retired), dismissal and two years' hard labor.

Chief Yeoman Henry Hellfern, reduced to landsman, three years confinement and dishonorable discharge.

Paymaster's Clerk Rowland M. Thompson, public reprimand and loss of $416 pay.

TWO STILLS, BUT NO LOSS.

There were two calls for the firemen this morning, but no work for them in either case.

Shortly after 6:30 a still was sounded, summoning the apparatus to the Cleveland House on Clarke street, where a pan of grease in the oven was giving offence. There was no loss but the grease.

At 10:15, after a long search about the Florentine block on Broadway by tenants, the firemen were called to look over the situation, and smelled and saw smoke in the cellar for a long time before locating the cause. A back draft from the heater for the south tenement was to blame.

Incidentally the firemen found a yard and cellar with quantities of inflammable rubbish which would give a fire a good start. Tenants complained of the conditions and Chief Kirwin and Building Inspector Sullivan held a conference before they left the scene.

IN THE LIFE SAVING SERVICE.

Mr. Bigalke Discovers a Fallen Trolley Cross Arm in Time to Stop the Next Car.

Mr. Theodore Bigalke was in the life saving service Thursday for a brief period. He was out in Portsmouth, adjacent to the Middletown line and on the West Main road, the exact situation, geographically, being the junction of Union street. He was on foot, and happening to look toward the tracks of the Providence road saw a cross arm which had fallen and was in position, in his mind, to do damage to an approaching car. The car was coming at that time from Bristol Ferry and Mr. Bigalke went back and notified the motorman. An examination was made and it became evident that something must be done before that section of track could be used. A car was sent out to meet the incoming car, passengers were transferred and later repairs were made.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

Joseph Matoes, Jr., was quite seriously injured Friday evening at the rooms of the Holy Name Society. With a party of young men he was attempting to do the giant swing on the horizontal bar, and while well up over the bar lost his hold, striking on the hard floor. He was rendered unconscious and a physician was called, finding besides numerous bruises that the upper jaw had been fractured. The young man responded so slowly to treatment that his life was feared for. He was taken to his home, where he rallied to some extent.

Work on a bungalow on Shoreby Hill for Mr. Crosby Kindleberger of New York was commenced today. Mr. Frederic Anthony has the contract.

Another cargo of lumber was landed Friday on Ferry wharf, lighter Archer bringing it from Fall River.

There was no session of the public schools Friday to allow the teachers to attend the Institute in Providence.

Mr. W. F. Davis of Providence was on the island today.

The big government collier which anchored close off the ferry Thursday night attracted much attention from her size. When it is known that the cargo consisted of 19,000 tons, an idea of the good anchorage off the island can be had.

Barge Valentine is in with a cargo of mixed coal for the ferry company.

Mandamus Writ Against Pawtucket Board of Canvassers Denied.

Motorman, Alighting from Car, Seriously Injured by Automobile—Voters Dropped.

The state supreme court Friday evening handed down a rescript, after hearing the demurrer to the petition of Augustine F. Burns for a writ of mandamus against the Pawtucket board of canvassers, sustaining the demurrer and denying and dismissing the petition. The court said an opinion would be given later. Hugh J. Carroll, attorney for Mr. Burns, in arguing for his client, contended that "not one personal property taxpayer in the city of Pawtucket is legally assessed and the whole assessment is wrong. There is no legal assessment on personal property upon which taxes can be collected," he maintained. The Burns action against the canvassers was before the court on the respondent's demurrer, Mr. Burns, who is a candidate for member of the board of aldermen, sought a writ of mandamus to compel the board of canvassers and registration to strike out of the voting list the names of several hundred persons who were assessed for personal property valued at $300.

Frank S. Vigneau of Providence, 41 years of age, a motorman, was seriously injured Friday night when he was knocked down, dragged a number of feet and run over by an automobile bearing No. 7645 Rhode Island register. He was carried to his home suffering from injuries to his head and back and also from probable internal injuries. Vigneau was a passenger on a street car and was on his way home after his day's work. A number of passengers alighted, including Vigneau, who was the last. As he stepped on the ground he was struck by the automobile, which was going in the same direction as the car. Vigneau was knocked down and dragged several feet before the wheels of the car succeeded in passing over him and clearing his body. The chauffeur brought the car to a stop and took the victim of the accident to the office of a doctor, who dressed the man's injuries temporarily, after which Vigneau was removed to his home. The police were notified and began an investigation. They found that the chauffeur had refused to give either his name or address and had disappeared as soon as Vigneau had been carried to his home. It was found that the automobile, bearing the registry number 7648, is owned by Hiram A. Grant of Providence.

The town council of North Providence met as board of canvassers Friday in a session which did not close until nearly 8 o'clock in the evening. The Democrats and independents were present with John J. Fitzgerald to conduct their protests against certain names. A tilt over the registry list was the usual spectacle, but the action of the tax assessors, which cut out at least eight of the dozen personal property voters who were dropped, was entirely new. Never before have the assessors been a factor to the canvass. Months after the registry books were closed, they simply failed to assess the men, and the council, referring to the tax books, which had not yet been printed, cut them off the list.

The representatives of the carriage owners of Providence have refused to submit to arbitration the demands made upon them by the carriage and cab drivers belonging to the local union of that craft. Committees representing both organizations failed to reach an agreement. The owners offered to sign the old agreement, which provides for a salary of $14 a week, a day's work of 11 hours and one Sunday off a month. The proposition submitted by the drivers would increase the weekly salary to $14, a day of 10 hours, or one hour less, and every other Sunday off. Both sides held out for their respective propositions and the conference broke off without any result. The drivers will now take up the matter with the international officers of the carriage and cab drivers.

The roll of the entering class at Brown University this year comprises 215 members, one of the largest on record and the largest for several years. A year ago the Freshman class included 182 students. By states Rhode Island, of course, heads the list with 80. Massachusetts has 51 and New York 24. There are eight from Connecticut, seven each from Maine, New Hampshire and Pennsylvania; five from New Jersey, and Ohio, three from Illinois, two from Vermont, District of Columbia, Missouri and China, and one from West Virginia, Kentucky, Minnesota, Colorado, Washington, the British West Indies and Switzerland. In the Freshman class this year are 14 sons of Brown men, their fathers having been graduated in classes between '74 and '92. The registration at the Women's College this year is as follows: Seniors, 35; Juniors, 45; Sophomores, 52; Freshmen, 51; special students, 7. This is a total of 191, against 198 a year ago, when there were 18 specials. The present Senior class has actually gained two since it was the Junior class a year ago.

Celebrating the sixtieth anniversary of their married life Mr. and Mrs. John A. Gardiner of Barrington received about 75 relatives, friends and neighbors in their home Friday afternoon. The house was decorated with chrysanthemums, roses and pinks. Many gifts and remembrances were received. An original poem by their son-in-law, Mr. C. H. Pierce, was read by Rev. H. W. Watjen. The couple were married by the Rev. Joseph Tillinghast of Barrington, where they have lived for 24 years, and where their six children were born. Mrs. Gardiner was Miss Mary E. H. Hazard of North Kingstown.

Four members of the Royal Commission on Industrial Training and Technical Education of Canada spent Friday in Providence, visiting several educational institutions and business establishments and left to continue their world-wide investigations. The commission, appointed by the Dominion government more than a year ago, has traveled through half a dozen countries, securing facts which may be used by Canada in bettering the condition of the working people. They went to the Rhode Island School of Design, the Brown & Sharpe Manufacturing Company, and ended their investigation with a trip through the Gorham plant.

Walter H. Tabor of Apponaug was elected president of the Rhode Island Grammar Masters' Association at its seventh annual meeting Friday afternoon in Providence. The meeting was attended by 35 members of the association. The other officers elected were: Vice President, John H. Harvey Providence; secretary, Silas T. Nye, Westerly; treasurer, Rev. Frank A. Spratt, Providence. The meeting was preceded by dinner, which was served in the main dining room of the hotel. Three new members were elected.

Eleven of the 500 immigrants, mostly from Naples, who arrived in Providence on Fabre Line steamship Madonna, were held up by the immigration authorities when the steamer docked Friday. Most of the detained were children ranging from three to seven years, but among them was an aged couple, bewildered in the new land and unable to give the names or addresses of those they had expected to meet here. After a consultation it was decided to send all the detained to Boston for further investigation.

Voicing the protest of the New ing, slaughtering and burning of the members of their race in the South and West, Rev. Mark Harris began the organization of a committee of protest of 5,000 New England negroes to march on Washington May 7, 1912, Friday evening at the Ebenezer Baptist Church, Providence. The committee is to wait upon Congress and memorialize President Taft in defense of the race. For the purposes of securing funds to organize the procession of protest throughout New England, certificates were sold for 50 cents each to the audience. They were taken eagerly and enthusiastic promises to join in the protest were given. The movement is under the auspices of the New England Missionary Convention.

Joseph Guerin and L. W. Ballou of Woonsocket and Thomas Park of Central Falls were members of a committee representing nearly 70 woolen mills which protested strongly Friday to the Treasury Department at Washington against the duty on silk noils. The committee represented to Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Curtis that silk noils are simply silk waste and should be admitted free of import charges. No conclusion was reached because of the difficulty of distinguishing between the grades and it was agreed that the importers should prepare samples for submission to experts to determine the exact difference.

An invitation has been extended by the Bristol town council to R. Hoe & Co., the well known printing press corporation, to locate in Bristol if it is decided to move from New York. A letter received from the office of the concern was read Wednesday night at the council meeting, saying as follows: "We have been investigating the desirability of leaving New York city, but our president, Mr. Robert Hoe, is now in Europe and no further action will be taken in this matter until he returns, possibly next month. If at a later date it is decided to move from New York city we shall take great pleasure in communicating with you."

NOT A "PREFFERRED" POSITION.

A patent medicine man came breathlessly into the managing editor's sanctum, saying: "You certainly made a nice mess out of that testimonial advertisement."

"Why, how's that?" inquired the editor.

"Our copy read: 'William Jones wrote: Your live-for-ever pellets are certainly doing me a great deal of good. Send another box immediately.' I told you to give that testimonial a very prominent position."

"I did," excitedly replied the editor; "immediately preceding the death notices."

"Yes," replied the patent medicine man. "And the first name at the top of the death list was that of William Jones."

A THREE CORNERED DASH.

Captain Scott, Amundsen and Filchner May Start for South Pole.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Nov. 4.—The ice combatting qualities of former Newfoundland sealing steamer Terra Nova, which is being used to convey the British Antarctic expedition, will be tested again within a month when Captain Scott, who is commanding the expedition, plans to make another start for the South Pole. Advices to this effect have just reached here from Christchurch, New Zealand. Those advices, which are of much interest in St. John's, owing to the fact that the Terra Nova was a member of the sealing fleet out of St. John's until the vessel was sold to Captain Scott last year, say that the Terra Nova is now tied up at Lyttleton, New Zealand, preparing for her next voyage south. Captain Scott's attempt to reach the South Pole last fall was frustrated by a series of misfortunes. Captain Scott and his men have just left their winter quarters. The main attempt to reach the pole will be begun some time this month, and if all goes well the goal should be reached in December.

It is probable that Captain Raroul Amundsen, the Norwegian, will also make his final dash for the pole about the same time, it is learned that Lieutenant Filchner, at the head of a German South Pole expedition, has left Buenos Ayres for the Antarctic in steamer Deutschland, according to further advices, indicating a three-cornered simultaneous dash for the South Pole.

AT THE NEW YORK HORSE SHOW.

General Wood Names Officers to Represent Army—Englishmen to Compete for Cups.

General Wood, chief of staff of the United States army, has announced the names of the officers who will represent the service at the New York Horse Show, this month. From Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Texas, will go Lieutenant Carl Boyd, Third cavalry; Lieutenant Edwin S. J. Greble, Jr., Third field artillery, and Captain George Videmer, Eleventh cavalry. From Myer, Virginia, will send Captain Julian R. Lindsay Fifteenth cavalry, and Lieutenants John W. Downer and William H. Sheppard, Third field artillery. Lieutenant Brice Disque, Third cavalry, will go from Columbus Barracks, Ohio. From Fort Riley, Kansas, will be sent Captain Guy V. Henry Twelfth cavalry; Lieutenant Ephriam Graham, Fifteenth cavalry, and three others as yet unnamed. From Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont, Lieutenant Chapman Hartwell, Tenth cavalry, will be sent.

Of the four officers of the British army who will compete in the military and hunters' classes all will be familiar to those who attended the show last year. A fifth English officer, Lord Decies, also will return for the show this year, but he will take no part in the competitions, although he will act as a judge in the military classes. The officers who for a second time will represent the English military are Colonel Paul A. Kenna, V. C., D. S. O., aide-de-camp to King George; Lieutenant Geoffrey Brooke, of the Yorkshire Light Infantry, and Lieutenant C. F. Walwyn of the Royal Horse Artillery.

Although the above will appear in a score of classes, the three competitions around which the chief interest centers are those for the Plaza cup, the American cup, and the Canadian challenge cup. The Plaza cup for heavy-weight chargers offered last year was won by John Harper, a brown gelding owned by Lieutenant Colin Johnston, of the United States army. Second honors went to Colonel Paul A. Kenna's Deliberation, while Lieutenant Coblyn of Holland, won third place with Black Paddy, a horse that has again been entered for this event this year.

The American cup, valued at $750, offered by the Hotel Martinique, is to be competed for by a team of three officers from each country and will become the property of any nation whose team wins it twice.

The Canadian challenge cup, which was presented by Hon. Adam Beck of Canada, was won last year by The Rag, owned and ridden by Lieutenant C. F. Walwyn, of the Royal Horse Artillery, England. He will defend it this year on the same mount, and if successful the trophy will become his permanently.

HAROLD WARDEN SELECTED.

Rogers High School Boy Receives Second Alternate Appointment to Naval Academy.

Harold C. Warden, son of Dr. Frank H. Warden of this city, has been selected for appointment by Congressman George F. O'Shaunessy as second alternate to the regular appointee to the Naval Academy. Young Warden is 19 years old, a member of the Senior class at the Rogers High School and has been prominent in Young Men's Christian Association Athletics, particularly in running and jumping. The regular appointment goes to Ross C. Marshall of Providence, the first alternate is Amos Barston Root, a member of the Freshmen Class at Brown University, and the third alternate Raymond L. Root, the first alternate, has already passed the Naval Academy examinations as an alternate several years ago.

A FLOOD TIDE IN BOOKS.

[New York Times.]

There is a stir in the world of books. Nothing is sure of the publishers. The long drought in the production of readable fiction is broken at last and, coming with the present fall, a good book is being born every minute. A veritable flood is sweeping over the world of letters. A Bay of Fundy tide of literature, it is said, is coming in and with it a new-born public interest in the art of fiction, a thirst for romance and intrigue, society and politics, delightfully mixed by a master mixer. Whatever the reason, it is a fact that in the last four years very few books of importance have been published. The most popular and presumably the ablest, novelists in the country have been conspicuously silent in these years. Whether they were taking after 1907 because the public stopped reading, or whether they just tired, ran out of ideas or industry at the same time and quit, leaving a literary public literally famished for something to read, it is difficult to say.

What is more to the purpose, next year in the second decade of the century is seeing, according to publishers, a most promising return of letters. The long sluggish story writers have returned to the spindle and are turning out their most attractive patterns.

A Tailored Suit.

This suit has a modified cutaway coat with wide, square revers faced with ottoman silk in self color. The skirt is piped with the same silk and rows of buttons with cord loops, on coat and skirt, are arranged in the same manner. The buttons are mother-o'-pearl with nickel rims. A smart autumn hat trimmed with several wings is also shown.

CAUSE OF BLAZE UNKNOWN.

Medford Opera House Building Destroyed by Fire.

MEDFORD, Mass. Nov. 4.—The Medford Opera House building was destroyed by fire today, causing a loss estimated at $50,000. The building, a four-story brick structure, erected in 1886, was situated on High street, Medford Square.

The cause of the fire was not known, but the blaze is known to have originated on the third floor in a card room, where whist parties had been held. The flames spread quickly through the building, and property on either side of the opera house was endangered. Charles H. Barnes, cashier of the Medford Trust Company, whose banking room was in the building, secured the books and money and transferred them to a savings bank across the street, where the trust company was prepared to do business in temporary quarters today.

Assistance was asked of Malden and Somerville, and the fire was confined to the Opera House building.

The tenants were: Basement—Lewis Feltz, bowling alley; first floor, Medford Trust Company; C. W. Smith's pharmacy, and the moving picture theatre of N. H. Ware Company; second floor—John J. Fitzpatrick, clothing; Dr. J. E. C. O'Connell, dentist; Joseph Donahue, lawyer; third floor—lodge rooms of the Elks, Odd Fellows and Knights of Columbus; fourth floor—several small rooms used as card rooms and assembly halls.

NIGHT WATCHMAN KILLED.

Burglars Frustrated in Attempt to Rob Guggenheim Country Home.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Burglars, frustrated in their attempt to rob the country home of Isaac Guggenheim, the millionaire copper magnate at Port Washington early today, shot and killed the night watchman, Alfred Crooker. The burglars escaped in a boat. After the sound of shots, members of the Guggenheim family and their servants ran out of the house and found Crooker lying dead on the lawn in a pool of blood. A revolver was clutched in his hand, but none of the chambers had been discharged, showing that his assailants had dropped him before he could fire a shot. There are no clues beyond foot prints on the piazza.

BEACHED AT PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

Cause of Schooner Sadie A. Kimball's Leaking Unknown.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Nov. 4.—Two-masted schooner Sadie A. Kimball, bound from Boston for Rockland, Maine, arrived here today in a sinking condition and was beached immediately. The vessel's pumps had been disabled and the crew was exhausted, having worked for many hours bailing the water out of the schooner with buckets. The cargo of salt on board the two sticker was badly damaged, if not totally destroyed. The cause of the schooner's leaking had not been learned at 9 o'clock this morning.

LIKE FINDING MONEY

Hall & Lyon Co. Offers Popular Medicine at Half-Price.

Hall & Lyon Co., the popular druggists, are making an offer that is just like finding money for they are selling a regular 50 cent bottle of Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia at half price. In addition to this large discount they agree to return the money to any purchaser whom the specific does not cure.

It is quite unusual to be able to buy fifty cent pieces for a quarter, but that is what this offer really means, for it is only recently through the solicitation of Hall & Lyon Co. that this medicine could be bought for less than fifty cents. They urged the proprietors to allow them to sell it at this reduced price for a little while agreeing to sell a certain amount. The result has justified their good judgment for the sale has been something remarkable.

Anyone who suffers with headache, dyspepsia, dizziness, sour stomach, specks before the eyes, or any liver trouble, should take advantage of this opportunity, for Dr. Howard's specific will cure all these troubles. But if by any chance it should not, Hall & Lyon Co. will return your money.

CAMPAIGNS OVERLAPPING.

Before the State is Ended the City Opens—Anti-Prohibition Literature in the Mails.

The city campaign is already on, for some candidates. It does appear, though, as if the common people, those who do the voting, ought to be spared the running together of two campaigns. The state campaign will close at 6:30 Tuesday evening, when the last ballot will have been deposited. People can then have some time to listen to the city campaign and read news of candidates, etc. It must be acknowledged, however, that the common people have had an easy thing of this state campaign so far.

"Some" literature appeared in the mails Friday. It was noticed that one bunch all ended with a "vote yes" quotation, from which it is evident that it did not come from the Prohibition party but from the Brewers' Association. Generally this sort of literature does not take much attention. Even if it is read, it has the merit of being brief. The publicity campaign by mail seems to know what the speakers do not, that the voters do not care for too much length.

A WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE

With Newbro's Herpicide

While there are no thrills in the narration of Mrs. P. T. Nichols, 623 Broad St., Beloit, Wis., her story is nevertheless one of amazing interest: "Stricken with neuralgia and erysipelas, I lost all my hair. My doctor recommended Newbro's Herpicide. I used six or eight bottles and now have a fine head of slightly curly light brown hair. Not a gray hair in my head. This is the more remarkable as I am middle-aged."

While the results which follow the use of Newbro's Herpicide are always more or less astonishing, they are always natural. Herpicide destroys the dandruff germ, stimulates the flow of blood to the hair follicles and keeps the scalp perfectly healthy. It makes possible a natural and luxuriant growth of hair, except in cases of chronic baldness.

While remedies said to be "every bit as good" as Newbro's Herpicide are frequently offered, one should insist upon having the original germ destroyer, Herpicide. That is genuine. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

For sale at all drug stores. One dollar size bottles are guaranteed. Applications may be obtained at good barber shops. Send 10c in postage for sample to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

NEW YORK LETTER.

Wide Distribution of Vast Astor Holdings [illegible] in the Metropolis.

Thieves Set Record by Stealing Three-Story House—Centenarians Are Plentiful.

[Correspondence of The News.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—For the first time in history figures have just been made public here covering the value and extent of the real estate holdings in this city of the country's greatest family of land owners, the Astors, descendants of the original John Jacob Aster, who arrived in this country from Germany in 1784 without a cent and immediately began the accumulation of the enormous present day property. While many guesses have been made concerning its size, there has never before been any authentic compilation. The new figures show that the present land holdings in this city of the three Astors—William Waldorf, John Jacob and William—total almost 700 separate parcels and are taxed on a valuation of $107,900,000. As this valuation is probably no more than 50 per cent of the price which the properties would bring at public auction or private sale, the total value of these enormous holdings would doubtless reach $150,000,000.

Almost as surprising as the magnitude and value of the properties is their wide distribution. Every section of the city is represented and in nearly every case by the choicest properties. Indeed in many sections a stone thrown at random would almost certainly land on a piece of Astor real estate. The manner in which this great fortune has been built up is shown by the fact that one of the properties known as the old Samler farm which was purchased for about $20,000 soon after 1800 is now worth about $8,000,000. Incidentally the Astor holdings include about $30,000,000 worth of hotels among which are five of the largest in the country.

New York is quietly chuckling over the protest which one local magazine has filed against the order under which it is carried as freight, while another of similar character goes by the regular fast express mail service. Also it is watching to see just what may break loose, for though the situation has yet to develop it is taken by some to be significant that the favored publication numbers among its editors a former President of this country, while the other has not infrequently indulged in criticism of the administration. Several other publications that have been barred from the regular mail service are preparing to bring actions as soon as the result in the present case is known.

Although among open-minded persons there is no tendency to charge the Postmaster General with favoritism, it is unfortunate for him that personalities and politics should be dragged into the matter. Incidentally, it is one of the many problems which Congress will be called upon to unravel this winter in connection with the conduct of the mail service. The railroads too are clamoring for a readjustment of their renumeration for carrying the mails, backing their pleas with the admission of the Postmaster General that many of them are underpaid and citing the fact that the [illegible] than in former years in spite of the large increase of mail carried. The question of second-class mail is also likely to be heard from and altogether the whole question of postal service is likely to be productive of many interesting developments when it comes before the next Congress.

The record of the thief, who actually succeeded in stealing the big 300-pound clock from the old Fifth Avenue Hotel in broad daylight as well as the equally remarkable feat of the suspect who relieved a precinct police station of its stove in which a fire was burning at the time, must now take a back seat. Both these events are matters of record, but neither of them can compare with the handiwork of four Italians, who have just been arrested for stealing a three-story frame house.

To get away with a structure of this size would seem to be a monumental undertaking, but that it has been done is attested by the owner who on returning to it this week after a summer's absence found to his amazement nothing but the foundation. Unlike the clock and the stove however the house was not carried away bodily, but bit by bit during the owner's absence. Even the furnace was gone though how the whole affair was carried through is a matter of mystery. Whatever the fate of the thieves may be, the owner is not likely to recover much of his house since parts of it have been disposed of all over the city. At any rate this theft is likely to stand as a unique record much longer than did its two queer predecessors.

Two billion dollars is the sum that would be required to secure majority control of the banks of the country and to dominate a national reserve agency formed by these banks, according to the statement made by Edward D. Page, a prominent member of the Merchants' Association here and a leading spirit in the movement of business men for the promotion of a sound banking and currency system. Mr. Page's computation was presented to the monetary commission in answer to the criticism of James J. Hill that an organization uniting all the banks of the country by its members would be in danger of falling under the control of some of the big financial interests.

Aside from the fact that $2,000,000,000 is a very tidy sum for any one man or group of men to invest in bank stocks, being equal to nearly two thirds the entire amount of money in circulation in the United States and far beyond the power of any coterie of men to command for any such purpose, Mr. Page points out that even if some financial giant were to acquire ascendancy over the reserve agency representing the country's banks, it would be of no use to him since any financial plan likely to be adopted will prevent the use of reserve funds for investment in stocks and bonds, and will limit the returns on the shares of the association probably to four per cent.

That New York is really a health and old-age resort, in spite of the generally prevailing idea that the rush of its everyday life, its noises, dirt and expensiveness tend to induce short life, is the interesting discovery made this week by the compilation of a census of its long-lived citizens. According to these figures no less than 52 persons have died here since January 1, 1909, at an age exceeding the Biblical limit of three score and ten by at least 30 years. Of these 52 who passed the age of 100, the oldest lived during three centuries, dying at the age of 112 in April of this year, while an age of 112 was enough to take second place. The oldsters seem to be hanging on well this year or while 29 of them died last year, only nine of them have shuffled off this year up to date. Curiously enough only one person among the whole list of 52 was a New Yorker, born and bred. She was a Mrs. Nancy Griffin who reached the age of 108.

CHARACTER IN TYPEWRITING.

Personal Characteristics Disclosed by Manner in Which Manuscripts Are Made.

[New York Sun.]

"You can tell a person by his or her typewriting," said a man who reads manuscripts. "I made this discovery a long time ago, and I confirmed the accuracy of it when I came to know the persons whose characteristics I had pictured from their typewriting.

"Take as an example the person who has little strength of character. That person almost invariably will spell one or two words incorrectly and keep it up, in spite of the fact that he has been told of it, and he insists that he nows how to spell the words, but somehow he can't do it on his typewriter.

"There is the person of slovenly habits. His typewriting is sure to be careless and slovenly. You can almost tell whether he combs his hair or not. If his typewriting is all jumbled up the chances are that he seldom puts a brush to his hair. If letters are left out of words, words jammed together and misspelled then you may be sure that the person is slovenly as a general thing.

"The neat person discloses his habits in his typewriting. If he brushes and presses his clothes, keeps his shoes clean and otherwise is careful about his appearance, his typewriting is almost sure to have the same general appearance. I have seldom seen it fail.

"The mental habits of the person are not infrequently shown by the typewriting. A person who is never sure of what he is going to say or how he is going to say it will be uncertain in his typewriting. Then there are the persons who know what they want to say but take a long time in saying it. Their typewriting may halt and stammer, but they finally come out all right.

"If a person's mind does not work clearly that person will show it by his typewriting. You will find corrections, insertions and a general overhauling of the whole matter. It's expressive of the way the mind grasps or does not grasp the subject. The person who is a quick thinker, incisive and to the point, will show it in his typewriting. If a person is clean cut and takes hold of a thing with vigor and sureness the typewriting will be a clean-cut job.

"I'm not speaking of the professional stenographer and typewriter, who are in a different class. I mean the writer who might be called an amateur typewriter, who shows these characteristics."

MEAT PRICES TO STAY UP.

[New York Sun.]

With an increase of millions in the number of meat eaters and an increase in the per capita demand for meat there is today a smaller supply on which draft can be made than there was 10 years ago. In some degree at least this fact seems to relieve the beef packers of responsibility for the high prices of meat. It is even more than probable that if the butchering business of the country was done by several hundred or several thousand competing concerns instead of a few large concerns the price of meat would be considerably higher than it is now.

Unfortunately the facts of relatively diminished supply and of actually increased demand do not make popular political arguments. Theories of reduction in meat prices through attacks on tariff schedules, trusts and transportation companies are foolish. As a result of immediate existing conditions there will be in the future, as there has been in the past, rise and fall in meat prices, but there is no influence now visible on which to rest even a hope for any early permanent reduction in those prices. The free ranges of the West are no longer a factor and high prices remain practically the only inducement to any appreciable increase in the size of the national herd. That transfer of cattle and fresh meat from the dutiable to the free list would materially lower the price to consumers is exceedingly doubtful. The prevalent notion that somewhere beyond our national boundaries there are enormous herds the product of which could and would come to our market if it could enter free of duty is not supported by the facts. The European demand on meat producing countries increases rapidly and exceeds in its increase the gain in supply. Muckrakers and tin horn politicians may tell us that legislation affecting the tariff, trusts and transportation companies will restore the meat prices of 15 years ago, but economic facts of official record dispute their assertions.

REPLIES TO ASSEMBLY.

General Li Yuen Heng to Suspend Hostilities Pending Peace Negotiations.

PEKIN, Nov. 4.—General Li Yuen Heng, commander of the rebels, today replied to the request of the national Assembly that he suspend hostilities pending peace negotiations, saying that the assembly would better leave the final arrangements between the dynasty and the rebels in the hands of those who were dong the fighting.

At the same time a message came from Yuan Shi Kai, in which he again asked permission to suspend hostilities, pending a reply from Li Yuen Heng to his compromise suggestion.

The viceroy at Tien Tsin is preparing for the defense of that city. The attitude of the populace is wavering.

SCORES WITH THE ODDS AGAINST HER.

Campbell kicked to the 45-yard line, where Pendleton was thrown without gain. It was Princeton's ball on Harvard's 45-yard line, but on the first play Princeton was sent back 15 yards for holding. Pierce took Campbell's place.

Dewitt again kicked way down the field and the runner was trown without gain. He then kicked out of bounds on Harvard's 28-yard line, where the ball went to Princeton. On the first rush Pendleton could not gain and Dewitt made on two yards on the second. Then Christie dropped back for a goal from the field, standing on his 25-yard line. The ball was blocked and Hitchcock picked it up and ran to Princeton's 25-yard line, where Pendleton nailed him. Hitchcock had a clear field, but did not have the legs.

Reynolds took Pierce's place for Harvard. With the ball in Harvard's possession on Princeton's 25-yard line there was a fumble, but Harvard kept the ball for a los of four yards. An end run was without gain. Then Milholland dropped back for a goal from the field. The ball went wide by ten yards.

Hollister took Milholland's place. Dewitt kicked on the first down to the centre of the field. On a fake forward pass Reynolds made 12 yards around Princeton's right end. They paused for Princeton injuries.

With the ball on Princeton's 44-yard line Wendell made 2 yards on a delayed pass through centre. On the next play he crowded through 4 more. Then Reynolds kicked to Pendleton on Princeton's 5-yard line and the ball was run back 7 yards. On the next play Dewitt kicked out of bounds and the ball went to Harvard on Princeton's 22-yard line.

Wendell made 4 yards through centre on the first rush, and on the second it was off side play by Princeton and Harvard's ball in the 15-yard line. Harvard tried the centre for no gain and Wendell could not gain around right end. On the next play there was a fumble and the ball went to Princeton. Dewitt kicked on the first down to the centre of the field and the ball was run back 10 yards. On a fake forward pass Princeton made 4 yards. Time was taken out for minor injuries.

On the first rush a yard was made on a delayed pass. Then came an onside kick to Princeton's 6-yard line, where Harvard secured the ball. On the first rush Wendell made half a yard. Then Reynolds tried Princeton's right end for a loss of 3 yards. On an attempted goal from the field the kick was blocked and White took the ball on the 15-yard line and did not stop until he crossed the Harvard goal line. The Princeton stands went frantic. Pendleton kicked the goal.

Score—Princeton 6 Harvard 0. The complete reversal of the situation was a sensation.

Fisher kicked off for Harvard, to Pendleton, who ran it back to the 20-yard line before he was thrown. Dewitt kicked to Reynolds on Harvard's 45-yard line but there was no gain on the run back. Just as Harvard was lining up the whistle sounded, ending the second period.

Score—Princeton 6, Harvard 0.

BRICKLEY KICKS FOUR GOALS.

Harvard Freshmen Win From Princeton, 12 to 0.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 4.—Football started early today with an interesting game between the Princeton and Harvard Freshmen. Nearly 1,000 enthusiasts were present to cheer the youngsters.

At the kick-off Huntington Frothingham was knocked insensible and was taken to the infirmary. His condition was not regarded as serious.

Harvard scored six points in the first two periods on two field goals by Brickley. The Harvarvd back kicked another in the third period, and made a fourth goal in the last period, on a placement after a fair catch, from the 42-yard line. The final score was 12 to 0. Brickley's running and tackling was a feature of the game. The Princeton Freshmen were once within a foot of Harvard's goal line, but could not jam their way through a touchdown.

The stands were cleared immediately at 12:30, the vanguard of the big crowd beginning to arrive.

FIRST IN FIFTEEN YEARS.

Great Excitement Over the Harvard-Princeton Football Game.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 4.—Princeton and Harvard play football today for the first time in 15 years and this little town where the battleground lies, awoke this morning to excitement and anticipation.

The last time a Crimson football eleven met Princeton was in 1896. In those days, as now, Yale, Princeton and Harvard were the big factors in the intercollegiate football world and the Orange and Black generally defeated its rivals from Cambridge. In all Harvard has met Princeton 16 times on the gridiron and of these games has won only three, Princeton captured 12, while one resulted in a tie. Hence the game today has a special significance to both teams. Princeton is anxious to maintain her old supremacy while the Cambridge team has come to the New Jersey town confident that they will reap ample revenge for past defeats.

Neither team is at the height of its form at this time of the season, but last week's game brought out the fact that Harvard was probably farther advanced than any other eleven in the east and her powerful attack and cleverly planned defense against Brown has made the Crimson the favorite in today's contest.

There was plenty of Harvard money in sight this morning at odds of 10 to 7 and 10 to 6, and some has been reported even at odds of 2 to 1. The Princeton supporters are far from overconfident of the abilities of their team but they were not slow in covering all the money in sight offered at odds as big as these.

Those who have been following the work of the Princetonians in the secret practice this week believe that Harvard will have a harder proposition to tackle today than she expects. The Princeton defense has been coached to meet the plunges of Wendell and Campbell and much depends upon whether the Orange and Black line can hold its own with the Harvard forwards. On the offense it has been rumored that Harvard will find several unexpected changes in the Princeton mode of attack.

The demand for seats has not reached the proportions of the usual crush for Yale game tickets, but it is expected about 30,000 people will witness the game today.

J. P. Morgan a loyal supporter of Harvard, is not expected to attend the game, although he applied for seats. Governor Woodrow Wilson, Princeton, '79, decided that it would be impossible to attend, and so will miss his first big game at Princeton in many years.

The early morning gave promise of clear, crisp and cool November weather, with very little wind.

Both teams will enter the game slightly handicapped by the loss of one or two of their regular players. Wight, the most reliable end in Princeton, is still limping around with a cane and cannot play today, while Felton, one of Harvard's regular ends, is also out of the game with an injury. Princeton will also be without the service of Farr, her clever little quarterback, from whom much had been expected. Aside from these men both elevens will take the field at 2 o'clock this afternoon in perfect physical condition, and with their full strength for what should be one of the greatest football battles of the year.

The line-up is as follows:

Princeton	Position	Harvard
White,	l. e.	Smith
Hart,	l. t.	Hitchcock
Wilson,	l. g.	Leslie
Bluenthenthal,	c.	Storer
Phillips,	r. t.	Gardiner
Duff,	r. g.	Fisher
Dunlap,	r. e.	O'Brien
Christie,	q. b.	Potter
Pendleton,	l. h. b.	Campbell
De Witt	r. h. b.	Wendell
Vaughan	f. b.	Huntington

Referee—W. S. Langford, Trinity. Umpire—Dr. Carl Williams, Pennsylvania. Field judge—Al., Sharpe, Yale. Linesman—Joseph Pendelton, Bowdoin.

SIXTEEN SPECIAL TRAINS LEAVE

Thousands Attend the Harvard-Princeton Football Game.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—It took 16 special trains to carry the crowd that left today for Princeton to attend the Harvard-Princeton football game. It is estimated that between 12,000 and 15,000 persons went from here to the scene of the game by rails, and thousands more by automobiles. The walls of the new Pennsylvania station rang with the cheers of the rival colleges and yellow chrysanthemums and red roses were numerous as the pretty girls that wore them.

HARD STRUGGLE EXPECTED.

Amherst and Dartmouth Teams Both Sure of Victory.

AMHERST, Mass., Nov. 4.—The green-stockinged football avarriors of Dartmouth came down from the hills of Hanover today, to meet Amherst in the annual gridiron contest. The Dartmouth team was accompanied by a large delegation of students and alumni. Buoyed up by the knowledge of past victories and encouraged by their record this season, Dartmouth men voiced their belief that the Green would win on Pratt field today.

On the other hand, the Amherst men said that Dartmouth had caught a tartar in this year's Amherst team and the local collegians believed that victory would be perched on the Purple banners at the end of the game. It is undisputed that Amherst has a stronger team this year than for several seasons, and it was anticipated that this afternoon's encounter would be a hard fought struggle.

IMPORTANT GAME FOR TUFTS.

Brown Meets the Team With Almost Entirely New Line-Up.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 4.—Practically the whole student body of Tufts came down from Medford today to see its football team play Brown, the most important game of the year for the Massachusetts institution. Brown met the visitors with almost an entirely new line-up. Jones, Mitchell, Adams and Goldberg were laid up with injuries sutained at the Harvard game last Saturday and there was a disposition on the part of the coaches to spare the first string men for the game with Yale next week. Last year Brown defeated Tufts 27 to 0 and it was the Brunonians' hope today to prevent its goal line being crossed by any one but Harvard, and possibly Yale.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4. Wall Street—The market opened with Amalgamated Copper at 54¾, American Beet Sugar 57, American Cotton Oil 43¼, American Smelting and Refining 68, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe 106¾, Brooklyn Rapid Transit 75¼, Canadian Pacific 241, Chesapeake & Ohio 73¾, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul 109⅞, Erie 34½, Great Northern preferred 126, Interborough Metropolitan 14¾, Missouri Pacific 42, Northern Pacific 116½, Reading 145¼, Rock Island 26½, Southern Pacific 112¼, Southern Railway 30, Union Pacific 167⅞, United States Steel 58⅞ and 59, United States Steel preferred 109½, Wabash preferred 25¾, Lehigh Valley 170½.

10—Prices advanced quite generally at the opening of the market today, with the demand for the railroad stocks the most extensive. Canadian Pacific led the railroad list, with a gain of 1¾. Erie 2d preferred, Western Maryland and Rock Island gained ¾. Almost all the other active issues scored smaller gains. American Agricultural Chemical rose 2 points.

11—Selling orders brought about a reduction soon after the opening. Reading gave way to a halt a point below yesterday's close, and some of the other prominent issues to a smaller extent. Large buying orders then made their appearance in Reading, and the stock was pushed up 2 points, to 146¾. Other coal issues were higher in sympathy. In the specialties there was a decided revival of interest in the local traction group and gas properties. Metal issues all reached a higher level, especially United States Steel stocks which gained a point each.

Closing—The market closed strong. The upward movement experienced a slight check from scattered profit taking. Bear traders were tempted to put out new short lines in Reading on the strength of the setback, but they were brought up with a round turn later when the price climbed to 148¼, an advance of over ten points from the low price of Monday. The general market shook off its hesitation in the final dealings and rose briskly, with Union Pacific and United States Steel in large demand. Money on call nominal; no loans. Time loans easier; 60 days and 90 days, 3½@3¾ per cent; six months 3½@3¾.

A TRIBUTE TO IDA LEWIS.

Inspector Sends Circulars to Keepers of Newport Light Stations Praising Her Record.

The following tribute to the record of the late Ida Lewis has been sent out to the keepers of the various stations in this district by Commander C. D. Stearns, U. S. N., inspector in charge:

"To Newport Light Stations:

"The inspector regrets to announce to the district the death of Mrs. Ida Lewis Wilson, keeper of Lime Rock light station, Rhode Island.

"Ida Lewis during her lifetime rescued 13 persons from imminent peril of drowning under circumstances requiring the highest courage and in most cases great exertion and skill. She was the recipient of many honors due to her fine record, and the lighthouse establishment not only loses the services of an excellent keeper but mourns the loss of a brave and noble woman.

"It rescept to Ida Lewis this circular will be posted at all light stations for a period of five days after receipt.

LOST ALL HER MONEY.

A pathetic case came to light this week, when it was learned that a woman having shares in the Newport Co-Operative Association for Saving and Building went to the office and drew $140 of her account. Before the woman had applied the money to the object which she had planned she lost it in the street. The sum was all the poor woman had for present needs and for the support of herself and her little daughter through the winter. The loss has been advertised in the hope of recovery, but the woman and child have done little else for the past three days than to moan and weep for the loss.

THE PONDS GAINING.

During the recent storms 1.27 inches of rain fell and the ponds have shown that they know it rained. The Paradise pond has risen about two feet, the south Easton's gained only the amount of the rainfall, but the north or Green End rose more than four inches. They are still gaining, since there is not so large a consumption of water as during warmer weather. No one needs water for plants now.

NO ATTRACTION FOR RIFF-RAFF.

But Beach Report Points Out Marked Improvements for the Benefit of Newporters.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

It almost seems as if the correspondents who have been writing to The Daily News on the subject of beach improvement have not taken pains to read the carefully prepared report of the beach committee. Those who have read must feel bewildered in trying to deduce from its recommendations a train of consequences beginning with the creation of a Coney Island in Newport and ending with the city's destruction by a second deluge—of riff-raff.

Before the report of the beach committee, the writer frankly confesses to a doubt whether any good would result from it; but declines to be numbered among those who, having seen the report, believe that no good has come from it. In the opinion of your correspondent no worthy appreciation of the labors of the beach committee has yet been publicly given—no, not even in the civilities paid to it in the daily papers. The members of the committee have evidently given to the subject most careful investigation and thoughtful deliberation. They have acted and spoken in the city's best interests. It is refreshing and cheering to note that no one seems to have an axe to grind, no one is advocating a personal belief or preference.

How can the most nervous alarmist see any attraction to riff-raff in the proposed improvements? But—there is a decided attraction to the many citizens of Newport who do not go to the beach as often as they used to, because the accommodations and surroundings have been so unattractive. Riff-raff will not throng to Newport for the pleasure of promenading on a board walk. But Newport citizens will enjoy it immensely, as they will enjoy the privilege of better bathing houses. The plan seems specially adapted to call back to the beach the Newporters who have deserted it. One eminent service the members of the committee have rendered—in setting forth fairly and in detail the faults of recent management. In the face of this statement how can any one urge people to put up with such faults for even a year or two longer?

One of the most hopeful signs of progress in Newport, in the writer's view, is that the beach plans have developed, after so much indefinite complaint and general dissatisfaction, through vague suggestions, often impracticable if not revolutionary, into a definite, sensible proposition which seems feasible and advantageous to Newport's best interests. It seems as if the committee had planned for the welfare of all the citizens who can in any way enjoy our beach. So far, what definite, rational objection to this plan has been presented by any one? If the labor spent in the preparation of this report is to go for naught, what other men, interested for the welfare of Newport, will have the courage to try again?

Alas! all the use that is made of our glorious ocean privileges by some people is to throw cold water—yea, salt water—on the other people who want to go ahead and do things. How often has the clock been on the point of striking twelve in Newport when some faint-hearted mortals have dragged back the hands to make it strike one! Let us not be dragged back again!

The writer who signs as "Development" is right when he says old Newport cannot be brought back. But a Newport, better adapted to the time and satisfying the needs of all the people, can be developed, and must be, unless the inhabitants disappear and leave nature alone to brood over what was once a city.

They tell us—the beach is an asset! It has been freed from bad management. What shall we do with it? Here is a plan. The citizens should be proud of it. What shall they do with it? In the name of reason and common sense, praise it and support it. Let us no longer be hesitating and cowardly in our fears of what may happen if we take action, but let us move forward.

Newport, Nov. 3, 1911.

PROFESSIONAL ADVICE NEEDED.

Amid Diversity of Personal Opinions This the Best Way to Solve the Puzzling Beach Problem.

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Sir: The extremely important question of how to improve the beach appears to excite interest. This is gratifying, even if at times we become a little impatient with those who do not agree with us in all details.

The method used in guessing the riddle vary according to one's point of view. A person who is comfortable and satisfied—and there are not a few of them—hopes that there will be no change. Others less comfortable and less satisfied—and there is a far greater number of these—dislike present conditions extremely, but when faced with the question of improvements they are at sea. One man wishes to copy Biarritz; another, Atlantic City; another, Llandudno—and so on. There is no end of earnestness and each one is firm; each one believes he knows exactly what Newport needs and that pretty nearly every one else knows nothing.

All this can mean but one thing, and that is that our supreme need is the best professional advice. We must have it. We need a man to whom what with us is a puzzle is to him life-work. And it is to be specially noted that such a man, being an outsider, will have that great requisite—perspective—whereas we who are so very close to our subject cannot have it; each of us, in spite of wishing to be impartial, cannot avoid personal or local bias. The professional man will need our constant assistance, to be sure, but he will work with us and we will work with him. That is the way cities that spend their money judiciously grapple such work. To deny the advisability of engaging such assistance would be equivalent to declining to apply to a physician when one is ill. In a civic sense Newport is ill; one of the symptoms is this diversity of irreconcilable opinions and the temper that accompanies them. Temper will not help us; let us drop it and reason together.

Duty.

Newport, Nov. 4, 1911.

I WONDER WHO WROTE THAT?

To the Editor of The News:

Dear Sir: Although I have lived away from Newport for over three years, I retain sufficient interest there to take The Daily News and to make frequent visits to the place.

I have read with entertainment the numerous letters containing the views of the writers as regards to Easton's beach. But why do these correspondents always sign their initials, or frequently only one initial? Are they ashamed of what they write? Assuming that many of these writers are men and women of prominence, people whose opinions are reached only after mature thought, and hence worthy of being quoted, why do they "hide their lights under bushels?" An opinion written on any subject, honestly signed by the writer, will always carry more weight than an anonymous letter. Let us by all means improve the beach, let us add to the attractions of Newport in any manner that shall be of benefit to the inhabitants, but above all let us add a little courage to the inevitable writer who fears to let people know which side he is on.

THE FELLOWS SINGERS CONCERT.

The Fellows Singers, who introduce the Young Men's Christian Association course, is a unique organization, combining high-class concert and opera talent capable of producing excerpts from grand opera or a charming operetta with costumes and action. The bureau through which this company is secured has had assurances for some time that patrons have desired some departure from the conventional concert program. To this end it engaged the services of Mr. Fellows to organize a company which should meet this demand and he has succeeded in arranging programs intended to please the people who enjoy good music and yet like some melody and comedy combined. Mr. Fellows's ability to meet such a responsibility is further assured by his recent successful appearance in a seven weeks' tour as tenor soloist with Victor Herbert's orchestra of 50 pieces and six vocal soloists.

The company gives a first-part concert program of a popular or classical character and in the latter half produces excerpts from grand opera in evening dress and gives the operetta "Penelope" wherever the platform situation permits. The music for this operetta is taken from old opera airs, such as "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls," "Then You'll Remember Me" and airs from "Martha," including duets, trios and quartets.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

Mrs. J. Willis Peckham entertained the Oliphant Club Friday, several guests being present. The afternoon's program took up a series of articles now running in The Delineator, on laws in the various states relating to women, entitled "With all my worldly goods I thee endow," written by William Hard. A general discussion followed. A snack banquet proved to be a clever guessing game, in which sandwiches, salad, tea and cake were served orally, to be deciphered by the guests. A number of musical selections were given on a Victor machine. Mrs. Celia S. Hamilton will present as the subject at the next meeting "Mrs. Kate Douglass Wiggins and her Books."

Complaints still continue to be made of the Hallowe'en depredations along Paradise avenue, which seems to have been the section of the town most visited on that evening. Numerous fires were started in places along the road, the sides of the houses battered with rotten eggs, and several days after a number of milk cans were discovered embedded in mud under a bridge leading to one of the houses. Some of the boys are known, but it is thought that others than boys must have assisted.

The bridge leading to the Paradise School yard is being taken up and relaid, as the drain had become clogged by an accumulation of leaves and was not working.

Mrs. Mary W. Lawton has been caring for her cousin, Mrs. C. M. Cole, in Newport, who has been ill the past week. In her absence the Friday evening meeting of the Epworth League was conducted by Rev. Edward E. Wells, who presented the weekly subject, "Our Standard of Daily Living."

Mrs. Phebe E. T. Manchester, president of the Junior Auxiliary of Holy Cross Church, accompanied by Miss Arvesta Champlin, attended the annual meeting of the Rhode Island branch of the Women's Auxiliary to the Episcopal Board of Missions, in Providence.

Brothers' night at Aquidneck Grange will be in charge of Messrs. John Nicholson and Reuben W. Peckham.

Mr. William Wyatt of Wyatt road, who had a severe ill turn Thursday, is much better.

The Middletown students at the State Normal School—Misses Ardelia Peckham, Mary Smith, Amy Parker and Alice Petzka—have been at home since Wednesday on account of the Teachers' Institute.

CORONER'S REPORT OPENED.

Mrs. Nickerson Killed and Thrown Overboard, But Only Suspicions As to the Murderer.

The report of Coroner Gifford of Little Compton on the inquest on the body of Mrs. Nicherson, found off Seaconnet Point July 26, has finally been made public. Attorney General Greenough applied to the supreme court for an order to have the report on file in the office of the clerk at the court house in this city opened, which was granted, and Friday the report was opened by Clerk Harvey on an order from the court.

It discloses nothing on which the attorney general could act to bring any case before the grand jury, though suspicions were turned on one man. The medical examination of the body showed that the woman, apparently was assaulted or an attempt was made to assault her, and her body was thrown overboard while the steamer was between Beaver Tail and Point Judith. No water was found in her lungs and it was apparent that she was dead, possibly from strangulation, before she was thrown overboard.

Mrs. Nicherson was a passenger on steamer Georgia, from Providence for New York, on the evening of July 26. When the boat reached New York her stateroom, an outside room, was empty and some of her belongings were in it. Six days later her body was found floating off Seaconnet point. The coroner held several sessions of his court and learned what the officials of the steamer knew about the case, but nothing definite which would throw light on how she came to her death, other than the suspicions suggested by the condition of the body and the apparent opportunity which one man on the boat had to commit the crime.

TO RACE IN ENGLAND.

James R. Keene Sends Famous Horse Ballot and Two-Year-Olds to Newmarket.

James R. Keene has sent to Newmarket, England, from New York, his famous horse Ballot and four two-year-olds, besides a hunter, to be used by Foxhall Keene at Melton Mowbray.

Ballot, now seven years old, by Voter out of Cerito, won the Suburban of 1908 in 2.03, the fastest time the race was ever run in, conceding weight to Fair Play and King James. Besides this the horse won numerous classics. Recently Mr. Keene declared that, though foaled in America, Ballot was purely an English horse through his breeding and that if he had been raced in England instead of America and had there shown the same form that he displayed in America he would have sold for $150,000. He is advertised in the last issue of the English Racing calender to go to the stud in the spring. It is his second trip to England, as he raced there in 1910, but under disadvantages.

The two-year-olds accompanying Ballot are a black filly by Peter Pan out of Maskotte's dam; a brown colt by Peter Pan out of Anomaly; a bay colt by Peter Pan out of Minteake, and a chestnut filly by Hippodrome out of Nora Creina. They have been in training at Sheepshead bay under the care of Tom Green, and will join Mr. Keene's modest stable at Newmarket under the care of Butters.

In England this year Mr. Keene's few horses have won $25,000. The exportation of the two-year-olds sent abroad close out Mr. Keene's racers in this country, except stallions, mares and weanlings. He recently sold Hilarious and two two-year-olds at Baltimore.

ANIMALS ON THE POLICE REPORT.

Cows are still on the police map. The latest report came from Mr. Theodore D. Phinney's, "Hilltop," and said one cow had broken and entered. No names were given, but the police suspected right away that that cow could not belong to Mr. Horgan, and the outside guard agreed with the police diagnosis. The proper official was notified.

From a different district, Garfield street, came a report of a dog which attacked a man's hens Friday noon, one being killed before the animal was chased away. The dog escaped with his life. It looks like a job for the official dog fancier. The city will pay $2 for killing that dog.

One lone case of drunkenness made the police station house feel that there is still some business, even if things seem quiet. The man had plenty of money and paid.

Officer Dugan was excused on account of illness this morning.

STANDARD BEARERS' MEETING AND SOCIAL.

The monthly meeting of the Standard Bearers of the Thames Street Methodist Episcopal Church was held at the home of Miss Hazel Dadley on Franklin street Friday evening. The short business meeting was devoted to discussion of plans for the play to be given by the society shortly. After the adjournment games were played and vocal and instrumental music was rendered. The rooms were profusely decorated with white chrysanthemums and presented a pretty appearance. Later the party adjourned to the dining room, where a salad supper was served and there were phonograph selections until a late hour. Mrs. Dadley assisted her daughter in entertaining the guests.

DEATH OF ADMIRAL WEST.

Retired Naval Officer Who Had Seen Long Service Passes Away in Washington.

Rear Admiral Clifford Hardy West (retired) died at Washington, Thursday, within a week of his sixty-fifth birthday. Born in Brooklyn in 1846, he graduated from the Naval Academy in 1867. He was in the navy 48 years and saw active service in many parts of the world. He was on board steam sloop Wyoming in the West Indies during the complications with Spain with regard to steamers Virginius and Edgar Stuart, and in the early eighties he was executive officer on the Alliance during the search for Lieutenant George W. De Long on the east coast of Greenland, Iceland and Spitsbergen.

At the outbreak of hostilities in the Spanish-American war he was chief of staff to Admiral Sicard on flagship New York, and commanded the Princeton in operations against the insurgents in the Philippines. He received service medals for the Civil war, the West Indian and Philippine campaigns.

Rear Admiral West was retired in 1902. The date of his promotions were: Ensign, 1868; master, 1870; lieutenant, 1871; lieutenant commander, 1888; commander, 1890, and captain, 1901. He was unmarried.

THE LICENSE VOTE.

A Question Separate from Politics, Which Deeply Concerns the Whole Community.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

Although voting day is close upon us, it does not seem as if it could make very much difference who is governor, judging from the state of politics. But there is one matter to be voted upon which concerns deeply every man, woman and child in the community, and it may be voted as one deems right, no matter which party he favors as the vote is a separate one from all party questions. Every voter should see that he has the ballot for this question, and he should remember that he has to answer for his own vote—and the consequences that are going to follow it.

It is well understood by those at all posted that, except possibly in rare cases, beer and other sorts of "booze" do harm and only harm, and should not be left free to everybody to take all he can carry off, any more than any other dangerous drug should be. And as to an alleged government deriving revenue from the legalizing and protecting of an enterprise which makes elections a farce, because it manipulates them to favor its own ends, always, no matter which party wins; and which fills the streets with vile language and ruins countless homes and wrecks countless lives; promotes tuberculosis, creates imbeciles, makes helpless paupers of those the state at great expense has tried to rear to clean lives of usefulness and respectability—to depend for a revenue upon that which will ruin those it should protect—this is something which has been compared by a writer to the swinish act of the animal which eats its own offspring.
